

Nixon May Borrow for Back Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials say President Nixon, facing a federal tax bill for about half his reported net worth, probably will be forced to borrow some money to make the payments.

Nixon announced through aides Wednesday night he would pay some $465,000 in back income taxes and interest. He acted after being told privately a day earlier that the Internal Revenue Service calculated he owed an extra $432,787 in taxes before interest for his first four years in the White House.

The President's net worth as of last May 31, was put at $988,522 in disclosures Nixon made four months ago. His cash assets were put at $432,874.

The congressional committee investigating President Nixon's income taxes closed its case today with a commendation to the President "for his prompt decision" to pay some $465,000 in back income taxes and interest.

A White House source, asked how Nixon proposed to meet a taxes-and-interest bill of about $465,000, said the President would use some resources and probably borrow the balance.

The White House announcement said the IRS report contained no suggestion of fraud on the part of the President.

IRS contended Nixon improverly claimed deductions for business expenses and a controversial gift of his vice presidential papers to the National Archives.

The federal tax collectors also held that the President failed to report taxable capital gains on sales of a New York City apartment and part of his land at San Clemente, Calif.

The tax agency, which once gave the President an okay on past filings now challenged, also was said by Nixon aides to have found he should have reported as taxable income some federally-financed improvements to his California and Florida estates, and the value of air flights made by relatives and friends on military aircraft.

The White House announcement that Nixon would pay the back taxes left open the question of the future of Nixon's vice presidential papers, on which he claimed $476,431 in deductions IRS now refuses to accept.

Nixon said last Nov. 17 that if IRS raised any question about the deductions, "let me tell you this: I will be glad to have the papers back and I will pay the tax because I think they are worth more than that."

Asked if Nixon now would reclaim the papers, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said, "that's a subject that no one's discussed around here."

James B. Rhoads, the architect of the United States, would not comment Wednesday night when asked whether Nixon could have the papers back. Rhoads said he wanted time to study the IRS findings.

IRS said nothing publicly about Nixon's tax troubles but the White House said its still-secret report "rebutts any suggestion of fraud on the part of the President." The official statement said Nixon was innocent of any wrongdoing, declaring:

"Any errors which may have been made in the preparation of the President's returns were made by those to whom he delegated the responsibility for preparing his returns and were made without his knowledge and without his approval."

A White House source said Nixon was not legally obliged to pay $148,061 in back taxes for 1969, which IRS said he owed, because the statute of limitations for that year has expired.

Saying the payment would be made nevertheless, the source said Nixon was "doing this because he said he would do it."

In unveiling personal financial details in December, Nixon asked the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation to look into his 1969-72 tax returns. He said at the time he would abide by its judgment of whether he owed more than the $78,651 he actually paid for the four years.

A committee staff report, made public Wednesday, calculated Nixon owed an extra $444,022 plus interest.

This preceded the announcement that IRS also had found Nixon's payments inadequate.

Nixon was described as convinced his lawyers "can make a very strong case" against the major adverse findings. But the White House said he would pay up without quarrel because of his December pledge to abide by the findings of the congressional panel.

An official who declined to be quoted by name was more forceful and emotional in discussing the matter, saying Nixon was "wiped out" financially because of IRS and committee staff findings in which "every possible technical aspect has been ruled in the negative."

Daughter Staying With SLA

Pat's Parents 'Stunned'

PATRICIA HEARST
... revolutionary

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The parents of Patricia Hearst were stunned and disbelieving today after hearing their daughter renounce her former life, call her father "a liar" and declare she has joined the band which kidnapped her 59 days ago.

Neither her parents nor her fiancé could believe that the 20-year-old granddaughter of newspaper giant William Randolph Hearst made the statements on her own free will.

A tape recording of Patricia's statement, broadcast over radio KSNB in San Francisco, and KPFA in Berkeley, had been brought to the stations by messenger who also delivered a color snapshot of Patricia.

It showed her dressed in overalls, cradling a submachine gun, standing before a red flag bearing the seven-headed cobra symbol of the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA).

In the taped message, she denied that she had been "brainwashed, drugged, tortured, hypnotized or in any way confused."

At their suburban Hillsborough home, her family verified the voice was Patty's.

But her father, Randolph Hearst, said, "Personally, I don't believe it."

Holdings hands with his wife, Catherine, Hearst told newsmen in front of the house: "We've had her 20 years. They've had her 60 days, and I don't believe she is going to change her philosophy that quickly and that permanently, and I'll never believe it until she comes to me, or her mother, or her sisters or one of her cousins and is free to talk without any interference whatsoever. At that time if her choice is to become a member of an organization like this, we'll still love her and she is free to do whatever she wants."

Her mother voiced doubt Patty would join such an organization without being coerced. "We love her and hope she'll be home again."

Her fiancé, Steven Weed, who was with her the night she was dragged, kicking and screaming, from her Berkeley apartment by the SLA, also had doubts.

"If she only speaks it only to me that would be enough," Weed said.

"I want to tell Patty that I love her as much as ever. I can accept whatever she has chosen."

"But that for me to accept what has happened today in the manner in which it has been given to me, would (be) just to sell her out, that's the way I feel right now."

Patricia's 18-year-old sister Anne said, "I know Patty far too well to think she'd come around like that. I don't believe it."

The bizarre broadcast also contained a frightening declaration from "Cinque," a self-styled field marshal of the SLA, who said that from hereon no members of the ruling class will be taken prisoner.

Instead, he said, "corporate enemies of the people will be shot on sight."

The FBI said Patricia's claim to have joined the SLA would make no difference in their investigation of her kidnapping.

"As far as what is said on the tape, I don't think it makes any difference to our investigation," said Charles Bates, head of the FBI office here.

U.S. Attorney James Brown said "she can remain where she is and it will not have one iota of legal effect on the kidnapping which has already occurred."

"The victim does not determine prosecution," he declared.

In an effort to win that release, Hearst spent $2 million in a food giveaway called the People in Need program, and announced another $4 million in food would be handed out when Patricia was released, unharmed.

Early in her broadcast, Patricia said:

"Mom and Dad, I would like to comment on your attempts to free me. The People in Need is a sham, an attempt to deceive the people, the SLA and me. You were playing games, stalling for time."

Addressing her fiancé, she said:

"Steven, I know that you are beginning to understand that there is no neutrality in time of war. Love means something different to me now. My love comes from the knowledge that no one can be free until we are all free ... I have chosen to stay and fight."

"I have been given the name of Tania after a comrade who fought alongside Che (Guevara) in Bolivia. I embrace the name with the determination to continue fighting with her spirit."

State Orders BOCES To Halt Construction

BY CARL GRAHAM

NEW PALTZ — The State Education Department Wednesday ordered the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES) to halt construction on its Bloomington classroom building and issued a ruling that could seriously curtail BOCES vocational programs during the coming year.

Dr. Jack L. Roosa, BOCES executive officer, told the board's annual meeting audience Wednesday night that Dr. Stanley Raub, associate commissioner of education, had given him a letter ordering work on the Bloomington facility halted immediately.

"This we have done," Roosa said.

A ruling by Dr. John Jehu, SED associate counsel, based on Section 1958 of the State Education Law, permits BOCES units to rent classrooms or buildings for a period not to exceed five years. "At the end of five years, if the facilities are not purchased they must be vacated," Roosa said.

The two rulings mean, Roosa said, that "The Bloomington proposal as it is now planned and written is out, and it means that several buildings now in use will have to be vacated."

Roosa said that the ruling that BOCES must either purchase or give up facilities after five years affects about 12 or 13 other BOCES county units in New York State.

"Many years," Roosa replied when asked how long the ruling had been in effect, indicating that it was a new interpretation of an existing statute rather than new law that had resulted in the bombshell action by Education Department officials.

"Work (on the Bloomington facility) has stopped," Roosa said. "This board and its attorney will be considering various alternatives, and we will have to consider the future of BOCES programs."

Roosa quoted Commissioner Raub as saying that he thought the lease on the Bloomington building was expensive. "You are really buying the building," he quoted Raub as saying.

Roosa said the next move would be to go to Albany as soon as possible to discuss the situation with Education Department officials. "We will work closely with the superintendents of the various districts and will get informed to you as soon as possible," he promised.

Roosa also assured representatives of the nine

Ulster County school districts that participate in BOCES programs that rental charges listed in the tentative 1974-75 budget would not be exceeded during the coming school year.

The BOCES troubles began Jan. 19, 1972, when voters turned down by a 3-1 margin a bond issue for a new building. BOCES then advertised for bids on a new building to be leased from the contractor, but rejected all three bids received as too high.

The apparent low bidder, Poseidon Construction of New Paltz, filed suit after BOCES entered into a five-year, $1 million leasing arrangement with Kingston contractor John Shults to construct a building on the Taylor Street site in Bloomington. Poseidon's request for an injunction to halt construction was denied, as were similar proposals filed by the Town of Rosendale and the Bloomington Homeowners Association in conjunction with County Legislator Louis Klein, whose district includes the Bloomington site.

Shults' concern had done extensive grading work and set stakes for footings for the proposed 35,000 square foot steel-sided building before construction was halted by the SED order.

Killer Tornadoes Claim 320 Victims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes struck an area stretching from Georgia to Canada late Wednesday and early today killing more than 320 persons, the worst tornado death toll in half a century.

Thousands of injuries and millions of dollars in damage resulted from the twisters that hit scores of cities and towns, leaving many in shambles.

Half the town of Xenia, in southeastern Ohio, was devastated. Twenty-four persons were killed and more than 1,000 were homeless in the community of 25,000.

Rows of bodies were arranged in the rubble-strewn streets. More victims were thought trapped in overturned cars, but heavy equipment was unable to get through the streets to lift the vehicles.

Whole neighborhoods were destroyed, buildings leveled, railroad cars and trucks upended by the vicious winds that struck the Midwest and South.

Kentucky appeared to be the worst hit, with 77 known dead and hundreds of injured. Alabama reported 69 dead, Indiana 63, Tennessee 56, Ohio 30, Georgia 13, Ontario, Canada, 8, North Carolina 4, Michigan 3, Illinois 2, and West Virginia 1.

The rampage cost more lives than any series of tornadoes since March 18, 1925, when a twister cut through three Midwestern states, killing 689. The service down in stricken areas. ALABAMA: 69 dead, at least 350 injured. Damage estimated in millions. Hardest hit Huntsville-Decatur area, Athens, Jasper, Moulton, all in northern Alabama.

Here is a state-by-state death toll from the tornadoes which struck a wide area Wednesday:

KENTUCKY: 77 dead, at least 280 injured. Heavy damage at Louisville, Frankfort and Brandenburg. National Guard called up. Telephone service down in stricken areas.

INDIANA: 63 dead, at least 1,000 injured. Damage estimated at least $25 million. Hardest hit areas Hanover, in southern Indiana, and Monticello and Rochester, in north-central Indiana. National Guard called up.

GEORGIA: 13 dead, more than 60 injured. Heavy damage throughout northwestern area. ONTARIO, Canada: 8 dead at Windsor, at least 10 injured.

NORTH CAROLINA: 4 dead. Damage at Murphy and Stecoah in western section.

MICHIGAN: 3 dead. Most damage in Hillsdale, southeast of Detroit.

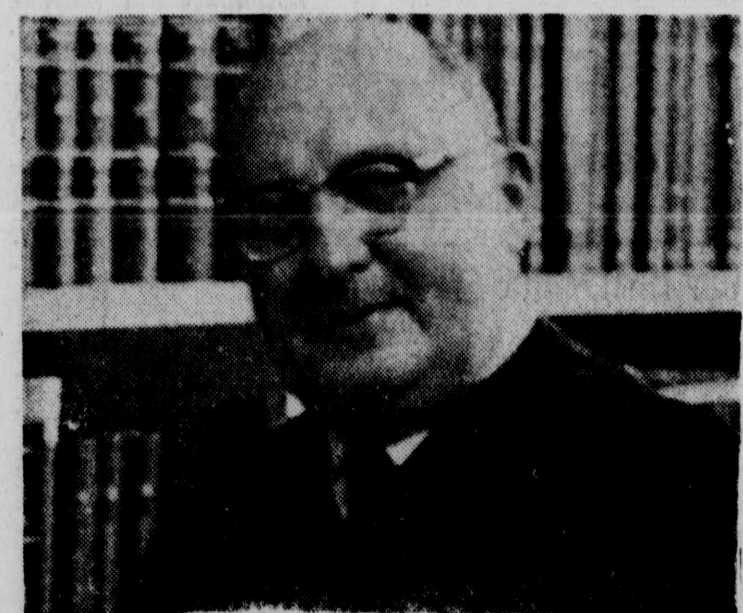

ILLINOIS: 2 dead, 22 injured. Damage estimated at $1.2 million in Decatur area.

WEST VIRGINIA: 1 dead. Two tornadoes hit the town of Meadow Bridge about 50 miles southeast of Charleston. Several were injured.

New Appointments for Mino, Vogt Expected Soon

JUDGE RAYMOND J. MINO

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — Ulster County Judge Raymond J. Mino has been recommended for an appointment as a Court of Claims Judge, the Freeman learned today.

According to reliable informed sources, Gov. Malcolm Wilson is expected to name about 20 judges to the Court of Claims soon and Mino is under serious consideration.

Should he be appointed, it is also expected that the governor may appoint District Attorney Francis J. Vogt as county judge.

Inquiries concerning Judge Mino's considerable experience and knowledge of criminal law have been reportedly made here by officials in Albany and it is felt that he will be asked to take one of many Court of Claims judgeships created in 1973 by the Legislature in order to cope with the increasingly heavy drug caseload in the courts.

Special

As a Court of Claims Judge, Mino would be expected to travel to other areas, including New York City.

Mino's interest in a Court of Claims judgeship was first announced last August when his qualifications were forwarded to then Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. At that time there were 68 new judgeships available and Rockefeller named the initial 16 men for appointment to the $37,817 a year posts. The pay is scheduled to rise to $48,998 in 1975 under the terms of the bill creating the posts.

Judge Mino presently receives $31,500 annually as county judge.

The Court of Claims posts run for nine years or until a judge retires or dies. Then the job "self-destructs" and no one is appointed to fill the vacancy. Although the positions are created to take care of the increased drug caseload, it is felt that the overload will not last indefinitely.

Judge Mino is presently in his seventh year of a ten-year term. He was first appointed as county judge in 1961 at a time when he was serving as Ulster County District Attorney. He also served as city judge of Kingston from 1949 until 1959.

Vogt, if appointed to fill Judge Mino's county court judgeship, would have to seek election to the post in this November's election.

A former special agent for the FBI, he is a graduate of the University of Detroit and attended law school at St. John's University, Brooklyn. He was admitted to the Bar in 1958.

Vogt was formerly associated in the practice of law with John L. Larkin, now a Supreme Court Justice. The association began in 1959 and became a partnership in 1964. Vogt was appointed assistant chief attorney in 1960 and chief assistant in 1964. He was elected to the full time post of district attorney in 1970 and gave up his law practice.

Sewage Discharge Worries Legislator

BY LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Opposition to the draining of sewage from a proposed Sullivan County housing development into Ulster County is being voiced by County Legislator Robert H. Kuhlmann (R-Dist. 7) who is asking the Ulster County Legislature to take the case to the Department of Environmental Conservation and the New York State Water Resources Commission as well as Sullivan County planners.

Kuhlmann said the residents of Shawangunk are "greatly concerned over the negative impact" of the housing development in the Town of Mamakating in Sullivan County on the Town of Shawangunk in Ulster County.

Opposition to the housing development has also since come from three Wawarsing Democratic Legislators of District 7, Louis Resnick, Eugene Houck and George Barthel who ask the Legislature to go on record as being opposed "to any development which would discharge effluent of treated sewage into the Plattekill Creek."

hosing development is proposed as a 600-unit project while the three Democrats suggest that the 34-building complex will house 900 persons. All are agreed however that the developer, Granomo Development Corp. of Mamakating plans to discharge thousands of gallons of effluent of treated sewage daily into the Plattekill. The legislature, which meets Thursday, April 11 at 4 and 8 p.m. in the County Office Building, will also consider a bond resolution for $117,000 for St. George's Camp and instituting a new procedure whereby the $450,000 in the 1974 budget for equipment purchases for the county will require requisitions through the county purchasing agent.

The St. George's Park improvements include $20,000 for bath house renovation, $24,000 and $9,000 for two new septic systems, $60,000 for surfacing of road and parking areas and $4,000 for a new well.

The county board is also expected to set dates for public hearings.

The public hearings will concern a proposal to provide an Ulster County Consumer Affairs Office as well as proposals for new agricultural districts, one for the towns of New Paltz, Gardiner and Plattekill and the other for the Towns of Shawangunk and Walkkill, west of the Walkkill River. There will also be a date set for a public hearing on a local law to provide a partial tax exemption of real property owned by certain persons with limited income who are 65 years of age or more.

City Schools Face Heavy Tax Loss

KINGSTON Although Superintendent of Schools Louis A. Salzmann received "absolutely no clarification" on what effect a recent Court of Appeals ruling might have on the city school district's constitutional tax margin, the school district is assuming it applies and is making allowances.

What it means in dollars and cents is that the school district will have some $2.5 million less in taxing power for the 1974-75 fiscal year. Kingston is the only Ulster County school district affected.

Two weeks ago the Court of Appeals, by a 5-2 vote, ruled that it was unconstitutional for school districts to exclude the cost of retirement and Social Security from constitutional taxing limits.

The constitutional taxing limit, in city school districts, is arrived at by taking a percentage—in Kingston, 1.75 per cent—of the five-year average of true value of property in the district.

Through the use of so-called "excludables" city school district had been able to increase that constitutional taxing limit. In Kingston's case, by $2.5 million.

Salzmann said he received mixed opinions while in Albany on Tuesday. Since the actual ruling only applied to Buffalo, Rochester and Yonkers, Salzmann said that some legal experts were of the opinion that it wouldn't apply to the other 57 city school districts. "Others said that since the Court of Appeals ruled on it, it was law," that is unlikely. The other av-

Salzmann said. "We're going to take that position. All any group has to do is to enjoin this school district from using that money."

Salzmann said there are a number of alternatives open to the school district. It could ask to have its constitutional tax- ing limit increased from 1.75 to two per cent but that would take 60 per cent approval by the voters in referendum and that is unlikely. The other av- enue is increased state aid. "The state has to come up with state aid to cover this for all the districts concerned or we're going to have to make $2.5 million worth of cuts," Salzmann said. "On a local level when we talk of cuts of that magnitude (based on a $17.8 million budget for the current fiscal year), you're only talking about people and pro-

WHITA Files Suit Against BOCES

KINGSTON Alice Tipp, president of WHITA (We've Had It Taxpayers Association), announced that court action was filed against Ulster County BOCES in Supreme Court in Albany today.

Mrs. Tipp, reporting on WHITA's regular meeting Wednesday night at the Statewide Savings and Loan Association on Wall Street, said the court action against BOCES, an action brought about by BOCES' construction of a new vocational center in WHITA was pursuing court action in light of recent State Education Department ruling halting construction on the project, said, "We feel our court action covers every aspect of the case. We don't want any loopholes left open."

In other matters before WHITA last night, Mrs. Tipp said WHITA was unsuccessful in its attempts to verify allegations by Rosendale Legislator Glen Debrosky that the county budget had a surplus of $7.2 million. She said that on the afternoon of March 28 copies of the Ulster County treasurer's report were not available in the treasurer's office. WHITA will pursue the subject.

State Senator Edwyn E. Mason forwarded WHITA a copy of the capital construction budget, state purposes budget and a bill which provides salary increases for agency heads. Assemblyman H. Clark Bell provided WHITA with a copy of the Klepak Report on state education.

All area state legislators acknowledged WHITA's appearance and testimony at budget hearings in February.

Queen's Passengers in Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — After a night crammed aboard a stand-in cruise liner, the 1,630 passengers from the Queen Elizabeth 2 were brought safely to land today while their floating palace was still adrift out in the Atlantic.

The Norwegian cruise ship Sea Venture pulled alongside the dock in Hamilton shortly after 7:30 a.m. EDT. Most of the passengers spent the night bunked down on deck chairs and on the floors of thickly carpeted lounges for a few hours sleep.

Buses and rented cars lined up beside the dock to take the passengers to waiting Jumbo jets that had been chartered for the final leg of their journey, a two-hour flight to New York.

As the passengers waited to board their jetliners they were handed checks reimbursing them for their cruise fares.

The passengers had been shuttled in a flotilla of motor launches from the QE2 to the Sea Venture in nine hours Wednesday.

The transfer operation took more than twice as long as planned, but went without any serious problems. The only snag had been the use of single walkways on both ships.

The passengers, who had made the most of the unexpected crimp in their vacation plans with a final dance under the stars and a farewell breakfast, were cheerful and praised the kid-glove treatment during what could have been a hazardous transfer operation.

Perfect Caribbean weather — temperatures around the 70s with a light breeze — and calm seas gave the whole operation the air of an exciting jaunt as the motor launches piled between the two ships.

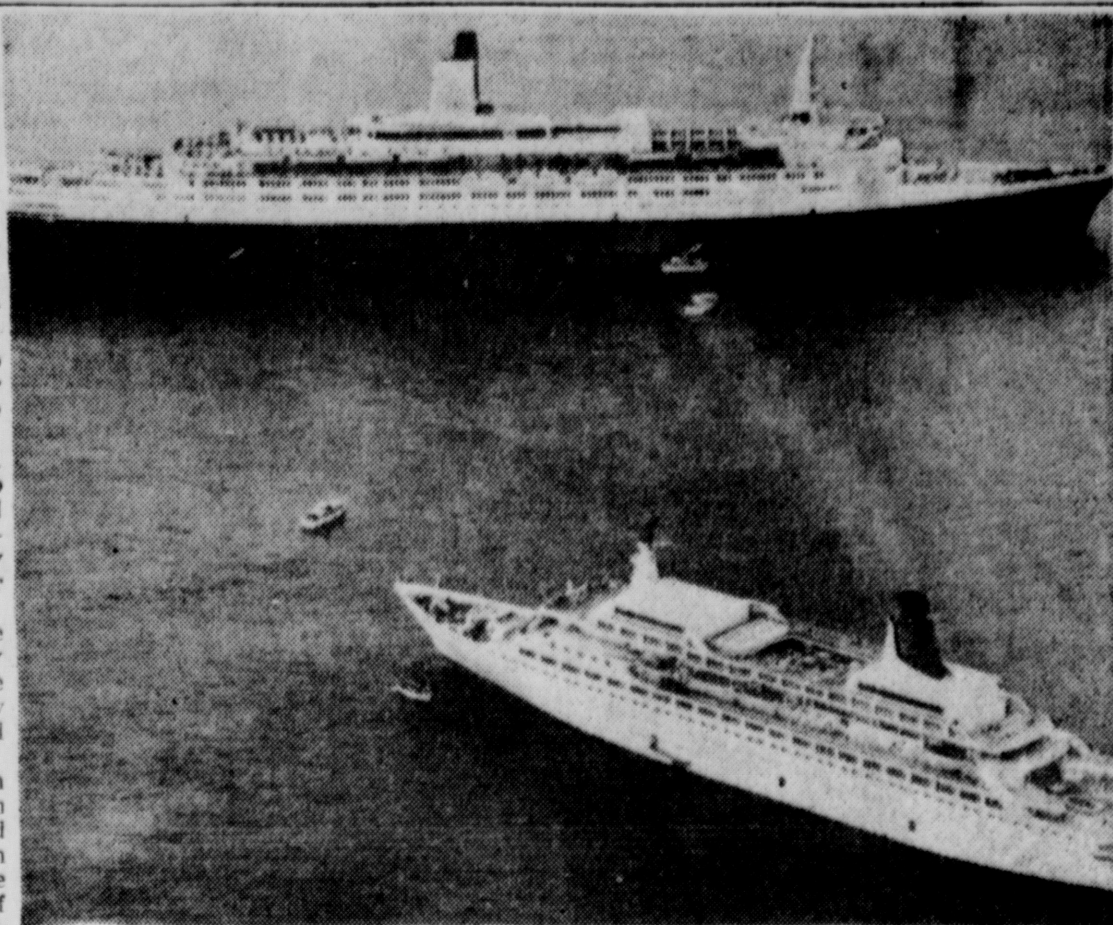

"It was more like an adventure," said Arthur Bray, of Stonington, Conn.

"All the drinks were free and that helped a lot."

To top off the operation, the Sea Venture served drinks on the house as well as laying out three sumptuous buffets.

Chartered Jumbo jets were to carry the passengers on the two-hour flight to New York after being refunded the more than $1 million in fares paid for what was to have been a week-long Fun and Sun Pigskin Cruise aboard the world's second largest liner.

About 600 elderly persons would be given first seats, followed by the rest of the passengers. The first plane had been expected to touch down in New York earlier today.

TRANSFER COMPLETED — The 1,630 passengers from the Queen Elizabeth 2 (top) were heading home after being transferred to the Sea Venture in a flotilla of motor launches. The Norwegian cruise ship was taking the crippled Queen's passengers to Hamilton, Bermuda, where they were to board chartered jumbo jets to New York City. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Pompidou Gets His Last Wish

PARIS (UPI) — France granted Georges Pompidou his last wish today — a starkly simple farewell in his parish church in Paris and a private burial in the countryside near the modest weekend house where he spent his happiest hours.

There were no flowers or wreaths in the Church of Saint-Louis-en-l'Île on the island in the River Seine where the long story of Paris began. The only music with the Mass was a Gregorian chant, as the president had requested in a terse testament written in August 1972 when his doctors apparently told him he had a fatal form of cancer.

After the church service, a cortege lined up for Orville, 23 miles northwest of Paris, an area sealed off by police to preserve the privacy of the 62-year-old head of state had asked for. And there a grave was prepared, marked by a stone slab bearing only his name and the dates of his birth and death.

In some respects, Pompidou, who died Tuesday night, followed in death the example of the leader he followed so long in life. Gen. Charles de Gaulle also lies in a simple grave under a plain stone near his country home at Colombelles Deux-Eglises.

As de Gaulle was buried in his village a great memorial service took place in Notre Dame in Paris. A similar national service, though not with as many world leaders in attendance, will be held for Pompidou in Notre Dame on Saturday.

The mourning in Paris today were led by Pompidou's widow, Claude, and their adopted doctor son, Alain, 32.

The Government has named

Saturday a national day of mourning on which all places of entertainment will be closed. Already the red, white and blue tricolor of France is flying at half-mast on official buildings throughout the country.

The burial will herald the end of a truce between political parties in the presidential race.

Prime Minister Pierre Messmer's Cabinet is scheduled to meet Friday and political sources said it probably would decide on a date for elections in which the nation will choose a successor to Pompidou, who died with two years of his seven-year term to run.

$50 Thousand in Free Air Flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's family and friends took more than $50,000 worth of free government airplane flights from 1969 to 1972, the staff of a congressional committee estimates.

Now Nixon must pay income tax on the value of at least some of the trips, the Internal Revenue Service ruled Wednesday in a part of its decision that Nixon owes $432,787 in back taxes for the four years.

The IRS decision and committee staff recommendation that Nixon pay taxes on the value of these trips is a unique finding in their twin verdicts on Nixon's taxes, which deal principally with contested deductions and tax treatment of real estate transactions.

They open the way to argument that other government services provided to the First Family also should be counted as income to the President.

Flights of Nixon family members on military planes had always been explained as requested by the Secret Service to protect against potential hijackers or kidnapers.

The trips fall into two categories — those where the President was along, and those where he wasn't. The staff of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation said Nixon relatives and friends had taken $27,015 worth of flights for which Nixon hadn't paid the government.

But it said that because the White House wouldn't provide requested information, it could only estimate the value of flights with the President at $25,000 or more.

The committee staff calculated tax on the value of the flights where Nixon wasn't along, but the staff said it didn't assess tax on the rides of relatives and friends with the President because of the lack of specific information.

A White House official said the IRS assessed Nixon only for flights where family and friends flew without him.

The report said Nixon adopted a policy effective April 1, 1971, of reimbursing the government for these flights, but that repayment was not made for all of them. Some, in months before the 1972 election, were paid for by Nixon's reelection committee, the report said.

An appendix listed all of the flights tabulated by the committee. They occurred during every month Nixon was in office through 1972.

Buckley Hits Nixon Again

NEWARK, Del. (AP) — Sen. James L. Buckley, R-Con-N.Y., says President Nixon's position "has deteriorated beyond repair" because of his failure to assume "moral accountability" for the Watergate affair.

In a speech Wednesday night for the student body at the University of Delaware here, the conservative New Yorker elaborated on his recent call for Nixon's resignation.

"One of the most disheartening aspects of the unfolding tragedy," he said, "is the manner in which the President has sought to narrow the focus to one of a technical, legal character," he said.

"What the public had longed for, what his friends in Congress and elsewhere had awaited, what all of us had been promised and were entitled to see, was precisely that kind of defense which had convincing attributes of candor rather than the measured phrases of the well schooled and cautious lawyer," Buckley said.

"It was precisely the President's failure, in the public's eyes, to live up to his promise to do 'everything in his power' to insure that the guilty are brought to justice that has cost him, irrevocably, that bond of institutional confidence between a President and the people on which the presidency ultimately depends," he said.

Buckley said "there is nothing Richard Nixon can do or say, no action that the Congress can take or fail to take, that will restore credibility and defense which had convincing attributes of candor rather than the measured phrases of the well schooled and cautious lawyer," Buckley said.

"Believing this as I do," the senator added, "I came to the very reluctant conclusion that for the sake of the country, for the sake of the presidency itself, the President must resign."

Buckley repeated that his statement is not based on any judgment of the President's guilt or innocence.

Consumer Act Passes House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumer Protection Act, called by its advocates "the most important piece of consumer legislation since the regulatory agencies were set up," has passed the House and is headed for nearly certain passage in the Senate.

The House, after more than seven hours of debate, passed the measure, 293-94, Wednesday night. It creates a Consumer Protection Agency (CPA) and gives it wide powers to battle for consumer rights in government and in the courts.

This marks the third time in four years that one house of Congress has passed the bill. Similar bills died in the House in 1970 and in the Senate in 1972.

President Nixon, who backed a weaker bill offered as a substitute in the House Wednesday, is nevertheless expected to sign the new measure once it wins Senate approval, as expected.

Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., called it "the most important piece of consumer legislation since the regulatory agencies themselves were set up."

Rep. John H. Rousselot, R-Calif., who voted against the measure, said it was unnecessary — Congress is better suited to represent the interests of consumers than still another federal agency — and it marked further erosion of Congress' authority by the executive branch.

Besides setting up the new nonregulatory agency, the bill authorizes it to solicit and evaluate consumer complaints, to gather and disseminate information on products and services, and to fund and support research on consumer products.

The House approved three amendments which slightly weaken the measure.

Two, offered by Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., restrict the agency's right to enter lawsuits affecting consumers — it must be invited by the court — and requires it prove any information it might seek from other governmental agencies is relevant and not unnecessarily burdensome.

Businessmen Forming County Group

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Ulster County businessmen, taking Council of Benjamin Franklin's "If we do not hang together gentlemen, most assuredly we shall hang separately," are forming a county retail merchants association in the wake of their successful fight against repeal of Sunday closing laws.

The businessmen, led by the Kingston Uptown Businessmen's Association, banded together about six weeks ago when Assemblyman H. Clark Bell announced that he was offering a bill for total repeal of Sunday closing laws, sometimes referred to as "blue laws."

Bell ran into solid opposition from the business community with the initial exception of Woodstock. When Woodstock joined its business colleagues, Bell, "backed off," in the words of Glen Stampfle, president of the KUBA who gave a report at Wednesday's breakfast meeting of the association at the Holiday Inn.

"He said he couldn't get his bill out of committee," Stampfle said. "He couldn't get his bill out of committee with a bulldozer. Even his own people (Republicans) don't want it."

Bell, according to Stampfle, has now offered his assistance to the businessmen in revising the present laws. There is a bill before both houses of the State Legislature, the Smith-Bersani Bill that would revise the Sunday closing laws, "tighten them up," according to Stampfle.

"Mr. Bell has offered to forming a permanent organization. Stampfle reported on a meeting on Tuesday at the Bowers Dugout with representatives from 11 area business associations.

He said the decision has not been reached on whether to form a separate county association, to become associated with the State Retail Merchants Association or to put it all under the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce.

Stampfle was given authority to continue discussion by a unanimous vote of the membership in attendance.

In other action, Stampfle made note of the fact that the New York State Brigade of the American Revolution will be in Kingston on May 18 and 19 with up to 200 militiamen in Revolutionary War costume.

The Brigade will camp out at Dietz Stadium and will offer performances at the Senate House, Forsyth Park and Academy Green, according to Stampfle.

Mrs. James Myers, a member of the Senate House Board of Directors, accompanied by two young Kingstonians, Michael Kirk and Christina Tomacelli, dressed in Dutch colonial garb, discussed bi-centennial plans by the Stockaders. Stampfle suggested that Mrs. Myers' group meet with the business association promotion committee, chaired by Stanley London.

It was also announced that the New York State Lottery will hold a drawing in Kingston on May 23.

Senate Favors Inefficiency Probe

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Senate has approved a bill that would set up a commission to study inefficiency in state government.

"This is not the governor's program bill," Minority Leader Joseph Zaretski, D-Manhattan, told the sponsor of the bill, Sen. John J. Marchi, R-State Island.

"Silence might be considered as consent," Marchi replied, referring to the fact that Wilson, a Republican like Marchi, has not proposed his own plan.

Marchi's bill is expected to be held up in the Assembly in anticipation of the governor's proposal.

Earlier this year, Wilson said he would propose a "little Hoover Commission" to study economy in state government.

Marchi, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee chairman, claims he came up with the idea before Wilson did, as a result of a finance committee study.

Under Marchi's bill, the governor, Assembly Speaker and Senate Majority Leader each would appoint three members of the nine-member commission.

In other legislative action: —The Senate gave final legislative approval to a bill that would prohibit insurance companies from recommending a particular shop for repairs on an insured motor vehicle. The companies could make a recommendation only if it is requested by the customer. The bill now goes to the governor for his approval or veto.

—The Senate also gave final legislative approval to a bill making it illegal to sell a motor vehicle that has been badly damaged by natural disaster, such as floods unless the damage is revealed by the owner.

—The Senate passed and sent to the Assembly legislation that would permit public authorities to sell surplus property to school districts without public competitive bidding. State and local government already can sell surplus property, including equipment, to the schools with bidding.

—The Assembly defeated a bill that would have banned hitchhiking along a public highway. Current law bans hitchhiking only on the paved roadway. The vote was 64-51, 12 votes short of the 76 needed for passage.

The Assembly gave final legislative approval to a measure transferring the state's lottery operation, and its work force of about 300 persons, from the state Tax Department to the new state Racing and Wagering Board. It was passed over the objections of Democrats who contended that the new board was "top-heavy" with highly-paid executives and that the bill was a "case of empire-building" by the board.

Passover Festival Starts Saturday, Celebrates Freedom

KINGSTON by the Jewish people for eight days, according to the Reform Jews. The Festival of Passover will begin on Saturday evening, April 6 and will be observed for seven days.

Israel and the beginning of the monotheistic faith adopted by them approximately 3,200 years ago.

Dr. Harry Z. Schechtman, rabbi of Congregation Ahavath Israel, recounts the historic events which are the basis of the observance of Passover, the Festival of Freedom.

At that time the Children of Israel had been enslaved by the Egyptians for more than 200 years. They were tortured by Pharaoh's taskmasters, and suffered untold cruelties, until they reminded themselves of the God of their fathers, and called unto Him for salvation.

The great emancipator, Moses, came to their aid, and when Pharaoh refused to free them, ten plagues were visited upon him and his people. When the tenth plague, which was the slaying of the first born of the Egyptians, was about to break out, the Israelites were ordered to sacrifice a lamb, and smear blood of the lamb on the doorposts of their houses, so that the Angel of Death would pass over their houses in his mission to fulfill the plague.

The sacrifice was to be used for the Feast of the Passover, called in Hebrew, Pesach, and was known as the Paschal lamb, which was to be eaten on the eve of the 15th day of the Hebrew month of Nissan. On that night in the midst of their feast, the Israelites were hurried out of Egypt, because Pharaoh feared for his own life when he saw all the first-born of the Egyptians slain.

Not having time to wait for the dough of the bread to rise, the Israelites carried the unleavened dough on their shoulders in their exodus from Egypt. This flat dough was called Matzos, and because it was unleavened, the law in the observance of the Passover was made that no leavened foods were to be eaten or kept in the homes during the holiday.

After a three day march in the desert, which brought the Israelites to the Red Sea, they looked back to see Pharaoh, and his hordes, pursuing them. They began to cry out to God and to Moses for fear that they would be killed by their pursuers, and a miracle occurred that the sea split asunder and the Israelites crossed over on dry land.

As the Egyptians followed them into the sea, the waters returned and drowned them. Having crossed over on the other side, and seeing the miracle that had been wrought, the freed slaves sang a song of praise to their Savior. This incident is celebrated on the seventh day of the holiday.

A seder, or an order of service, is held around a festive table laden with ritualistic foods symbolic of the Passover story, in all Jewish homes on the first two nights by the Conservative and Orthodox Jews, and the first night by the Reform.

At this Seder, the story of freedom is reviewed and special attention is given to the children to make them understand the lesson of the Passover, as the exhortation in the Bible states, "And thou shalt tell it unto thy children, saying, on that day, that because of this the Lord took us out of Egypt."

Volunteer Force Uncertain

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield is in the forefront of a drive in Congress to dismantle the Selective Service machinery, which had done little more than spin its wheels for the past 14 months.

The Oregon Republican contends that the $47 million budget expenditure to keep the draft system in readiness is unjustified in this new era of the volunteer armed forces.

Hatfield says the system is a bureaucracy that continues to exist and spend the taxpayers' money more by virtue of its own momentum than for any constructive program. But Congress, not the bureaucracy, preserved the Selective Service structure last year when it authorized discontinuance of the draft.

It was deemed wise at that time to continue registration of young men and to retain the annual lottery to set draft priorities and to keep the draft potential at standby.

The uncertainties of the volunteer effort certainly support that decision.

Enlistments have fallen short of recruitment quotas in most of the services. There has been some criticism of the lowered standards instituted in the effort to achieve manpower goals.

And the costs of the volunteer concept have been spiraling as the military has been forced to higher wages and more benefits to lure recruits and encourage reenlistments. This is not to say that the idea of a volunteer defense force has failed, but neither is there any conclusive evidence that the volunteer program will be an unqualified success.

The point to be considered is that if the nation should be snared by another global emergency, in the Middle East or any other of the world's more troubled areas, the volunteer fighting units would probably be inadequate.

Senator Hatfield's concern that the standby draft could create a temptation for the president to ease us into wars which the Congress has not declared appears to be unwarranted. The appropriation bill under which the $47 million would be authorized expressly prohibits military induction without action by Congress.

The cost of the standby Selective Service machinery is a small price to pay for insurance against the American people suddenly finding themselves defenseless.

April Cancer Crusade

Once again there is a hopeful theme for the American Cancer Society's April Crusade: "We Want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime."

Is there substance to this hope? The trend over the last four decades shows that there is a real basis for cautious optimism. In the late thirties less than one in five cancer patients was being saved. Twenty-five years ago it was one in four. And today one of three who get cancer is saved.

Medical experts believe that with present methods of treatment one out of two patients could be saved, providing detection and treatment come in time.

Advances in the treatment of cancer have come from research and improvement of surgical and radiation therapy. In a slow but steadily growing number of cancers, drugs have been effective.

But there can be little difference of opinion about what is needed for the final conquest of this ancient enemy of mankind. The scientific effort has to be broadened and stepped up. This means more money is needed for brain power and manpower, more equipment and research facilities.

When an ACS volunteer comes to your home in April, remember the goal: "We Want to Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime."

SHARED $125 FIREMEN FINES—

Under the law, the city of New York fined 9,000 of the 10,500 firemen $125 for the 5½ hour strike on last Election Day. The Uniformed Firefighters Association has assessed each of the firemen who did not strike $125 and will distribute the assessment among the striking firemen hopefully "so each brother can pay his fair share". Because the strike was illegal, the union cannot force non-striking firemen to pay.

VIETNAM VETS DAY—A new holiday has been added to the American calendar. President Nixon proclaimed a nationwide observance of Vietnam Veterans day on March 29. Standing firm in Vietnam enabled the United States to go forward in "the great initiatives of peace," he said.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—The attorneys who assisted President Nixon with his 1969 tax returns have sworn that they relied completely on the White House for their information about the controversial $576,000 deduction he claimed after the legal deadline had passed.

His personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach, and tax lawyer, Frank DeMarco, have been granted a limited release from the attorney-client privilege to talk about their tax discussions with the President.

They have testified that the 1969 returns were based wholly on information provided by White House aides, principally Edward L. Morgan, who signed the backdated deed bequeathing the Nixon papers to the government.

The backdating was done to make it appear that the papers had been donated before the July 25, 1969, deadline expired for claiming a tax deduction.

DeMarco admitted that he notarized the fraudulent deed at the White House on April 10, 1970, the same day he submitted the tax returns to President Nixon for his signature.

Kalmbach and DeMarco said they explained the returns carefully to the President, who checked them over page by page. The two attorneys reviewed the controversial $576,000 tax deduction with the President but never advised him specifically that the deed had been backdated, according to their testimony.

From congressional sources, we have now obtained a copy of the crucial 1969 returns, which the President signed. Attached to the returns is an affidavit from Chicago appraiser Ralph G. Newman, who set the $576,000 value of the donation.

The affidavit clearly states that the appraisal wasn't completed until December 8, 1969—nine months after the papers were supposed to have been donated and almost five months after the deadline had passed for claiming a tax deduction.

The appraisal began, according to the affidavit, on "the sixth to the eighth day of April, 1969." But sources close to Newman say on those two days he looked only at papers that were part of an earlier gift.

The final appraisal of the $576,000 papers, according to the affidavit, was conducted "on November 3, November 17 through 20 and December 8, 1969."

Newman selected only one-third of the available papers—just enough, according to the sworn testimony, to constitute the deduction that the President desired.

In the tax statement claiming a $576,000 "charitable contribution," the President gave the "Date of Gift" as March 27, 1969. He may have difficulty explaining how on March 27 he could give the government papers that weren't even selected, itemized and appraised until November and December 1969.

The final appraisal was dated April 6, 1970, just four days before the President signed the returns.

The returns also claim that "the gift was free and clear with no rights remaining in the taxpayer." Actually, the President won't permit the public to examine the papers, which he supposedly has given them. Access to the papers is restricted to those he designates.

In other words, Richard Nixon originally produced his vice presidential papers at the taxpayers' expense, then gave one-third of them back to the taxpayers in return for a $576,000 tax deduction and now won't let the American people inspect their $576,000 gift.

FOOTNOTE: The President waived the attorney-client privilege for Kalmbach and DeMarco only to appear before the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation and the Internal Revenue Service. They aren't permitted to speak about the subject to the Watergate prosecutors, House impeachment inquiry or, of course, newsmen. For that reason, they refused through their attorney to comment on our story.

AIRLINE SQUEEZE: The White House has ordered federal agencies to abandon a plan that would save the taxpayers a whopping $20 million a year on air transportation.

For two years, Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., has been trying to get the federal bureaucracy to adopt the same two-cents-a-mile overseas charter service that only the Pentagon uses.

A Pentagon employee, for example, can fly to London for $91, while the State Department man must pay $280. Yet the Pentagon traveler gets more leg room, better food and faster customs treatment. The planes are chartered from the airlines, which make a reasonable 10.5 per cent profit on the service.

Under Moorhead's prodding, the civilian agencies accepted the savings and the Pentagon generously promised to help set up the charter service. Even the Civil Aeronautics Board, whose chairman Robert Timm is a golfing croony of the airline executives, didn't oppose the move.

But on March 18, two days before the Senate hearings, shocked federal agencies got urgent calls from the White House ordering them to back off the plan. At least one agency was instructed by the White House exactly what it was to tell the Senate.

Suspicious congressmen thought they smelled a political deal. The airline executives, who feared they would make less profits because of the government charter service, had been among President Nixon's most pliable contributors in 1972. But the White House insists to us that the reversal was a staff-level decision totally without political input.

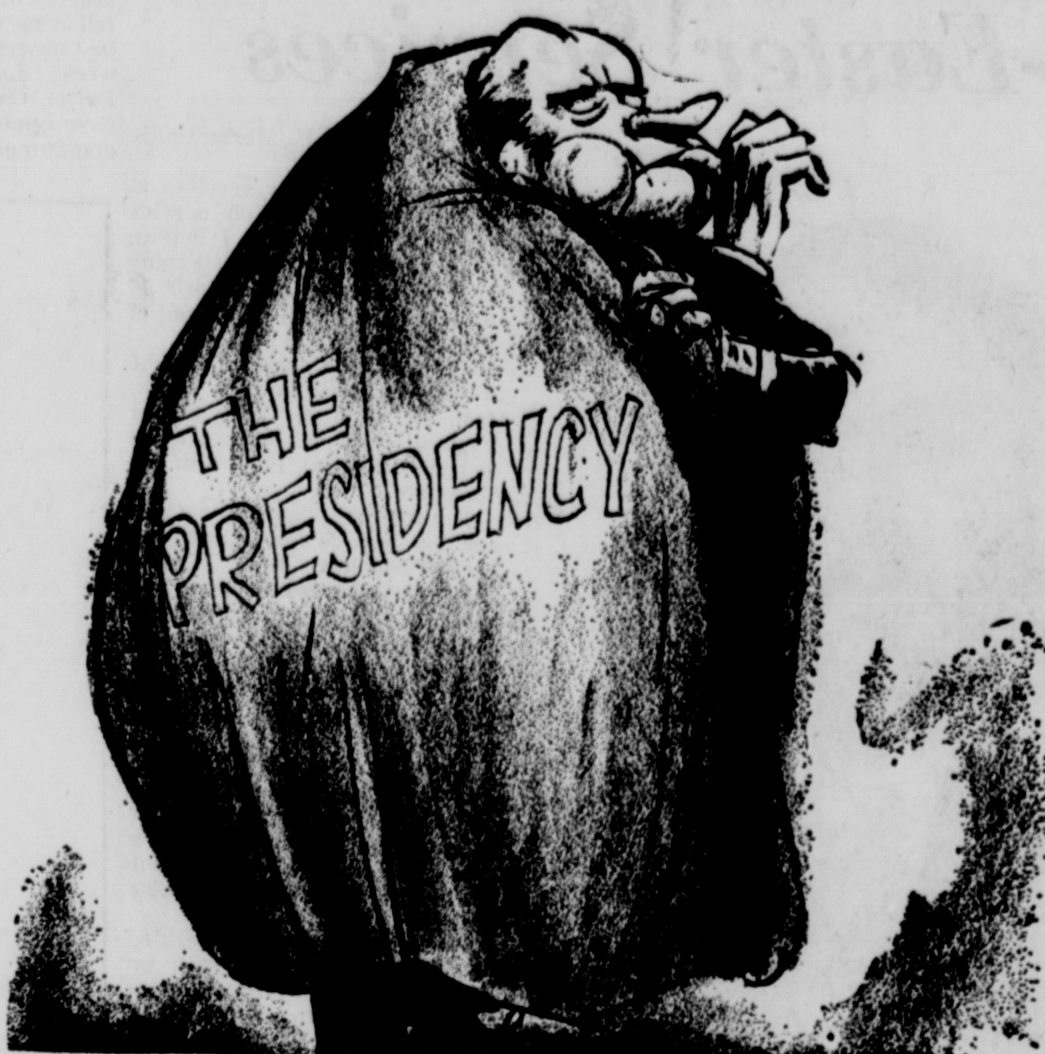

Spokesmen for both the White House and the airlines cite the same reasons for opposing the plan: shaky airline financial conditions, international air agreements and the fuel crisis.

FOOTNOTE: Braniff and American gave the President illegal contributions in 1972; Pan Am bigwigs gave thousands in legal contributions. United not only was represented by the President's attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, but provided an executive job for the President's appointments secretary, Dwight Chapin, after he was eased out in the wake of the Watergate scandals.

The Senator's Proposal

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Even the water buffalo and the springbok in Africa were talking about the startling recommendation of the tormented junior Senator from New York, that Richard Nixon resign the Presidency pro bono publico. Returning from abroad and examining the response to his suggestion, one is struck by a number of misunderstandings which appear to have become institutionalized in American thought. Not only among conservatives, but among liberals as well.

Most of them, in my judgment, are explicitly or implicitly incorporated in a two-sentence statement by a Republican Congressman from Tennessee, Mr. Dan Kuykendall. He is quoted as saying, "Senator Buckley's proposal is most dangerous as it would affect the Republic and its operations. His willingness to see a man forced out of office without proof of impeachable conduct shows a lack of understanding as to how this Republic was formed and how it operates."

If Mr. Nixon were to resign, would he in fact have been forced out of office? To answer in the affirmative, it is required that the word "forced" be used metaphorically. Because—obviously—there is no way to "force" Mr. Nixon out of office other than to impeach him, and convict him. Inasmuch as Senator Buckley looks with horror at that prospect, the first part of which is by all accounts imminent, then the point to make is that Senator Buckley desires very much that Nixon should not be "forced" out of office.

If Mr. Kuykendall is using the word figuratively, then the question to ask is: Are we really committed to the proposition that the people should not express themselves concerning that which they desire? Here again a distinction is necessary. If Senator Buckley had said that every time the American people desire a President to resign he should do so, he would have thrown in his lot with the plebsitarians—with whom, as a conservative, he desires no affiliation.

But he is not saying that. Nowhere in his profound statement is there a hint of it. He did not say that Mr. Nixon should resign because the majority of the American people would rather have another President. He said he should resign because the alternatives—for America—are less desirable. The alternatives being a) the probability of impeachment and the possibility of conviction; b) a presumptive suspicion of Presidential confidence in Mr. Nixon; and policies reflecting loss of confidence in Mr. Nixon; and

c) an Executive weakened as an institution by tormentors, who, in their anxiety to get Nixon, are likely to move further than is good for the institution of the Presidency.

What I understand Senator Buckley to have done is to have asked President Nixon to spare the United States the ravages of a prolongation of the Watergate torture. I cannot see how, in doing so, he showed any lack of understanding of Republican government.

Charles deGaulle participated in a coup d'etat, in effect, one of the principal purposes of which was to establish a strong Presidency. Even so, at a certain point, General de Gaulle, surveying the situation about him—resigned. He did not do so in order to inaugurate the plebsitary government he replaced when he overthrew the Fourth Republic and instituted the Fifth. He did it because he saw that the signals suggested France would be better off without him.

Edward VIII, King of England, was not "forced" to resign; he elected to do so, and there are very few Englishmen—conservative as regards the monarchy in a sense unknowable to American republicans—who now believe that he did other than the statesmanlike thing.

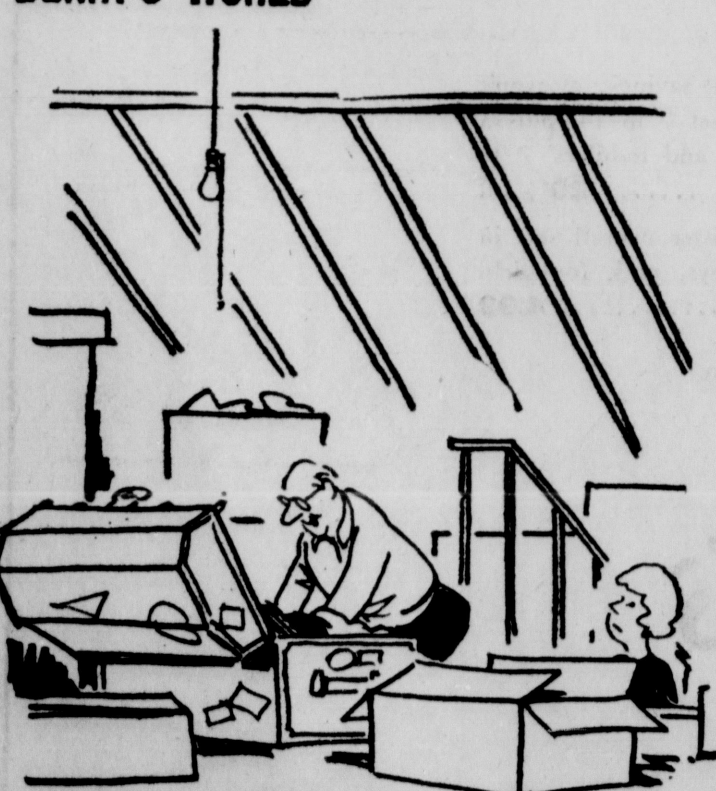

Very recently the Governor of New York State, elected in a landslide, resigned. His motives were complicated. But even his critics do not believe that he did anything venal by resigning, or that he betrayed his mandate. Any more than Richard Nixon would betray his mandate, if he decided to turn over the reins of government to his own appointed successor, Gerald Ford.

Mr. Nixon has time and again stressed that he was elected in order to carry out certain programs. Does he recognize that he is saying, in effect, that these programs would not be carried out under his successor, Gerald Ford; if that is the case, why did he appoint Mr. Ford? He could have chosen anybody.

I understand Senator Buckley to have asked the President to perform an act of noblesse oblige. That is to say, to put his country's interests above his own. That is not, surely, to misunderstand republican government, but to express the highest faith in it. Those who are hell bent to impeach Mr. Nixon rather than to urge his resignation are the blood-lusters, hiding under the skirts of Constitutional formalism. Maybe Senator Buckley's recommendations are misguided. Certainly they are not outside the spirit of the Constitution, which three times mentions Presidential resignation as a possibility.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Monkey See . . . Monkey Don't

By NICHOLAS VON HOFFMAN

PHOENIX, ARIZ. (KFS)—Hazel, like a lot of other people here, migrated into the area from back East. She and her husband, Mongo, came from the African Cameroons in 1961. They settled down and made their home in the Phoenix Zoo, where they lived in happiness and comfort until 1969 when Mongo died, leaving Hazel a strikingly attractive, coquettish, 240-pound, widow-lady gorilla.

It was after Mongo's death that sexual revolution came into Hazel's life. With it she would experience drugs, psychiatry and all the other elements which make up the boozin' an' cruisin' Southwestern swingers scene. Hazel fell in love with a guy named Baltimore Jack.

In the society pages of the Phoenix Gazette, Jack was described as a "$5,000 king of the ape world, six-foot three-inches tall, 18-years-old and about 300 pounds." The groom's reputation was enhanced in this easy-money town when it was announced that Jack would fly in from the Baltimore Zoo aboard Hugh Hefner's DC-9 Bunny Jet.

This news prompted Dr. Jack Hyles, a traveling evangelist conducting a revival here, to question the Christian morals of the Phoenix Zoo, where they lived in happiness and comfort until 1969 when Mongo died, leaving Hazel a strikingly attractive, coquettish, 240-pound, widow-lady gorilla. Jack's morals suffer from riding in Hefner's plane? "Not at all," say Phoenix Zoo officials. "Jack will be sedated and strapped down the entire trip. He won't even see any Bunnies or Bunny-style stewardesses or whatever-you-call-them that Hefner has aboard."

The wedding was the biggest thing to happen around here since Goldwater got nominated for the Presidency. A Phoenix jeweler offered 18-carat gold rings of miniature bananas. Hair of Scottsdale donated a special wig. Best Photography came forward to take the pictures and a local dentist offered to provide the wedding cake. The Gazette, ever the first to bring Phoenixians the news they most need to know, reported that the dentist "was inspired in the suggestion by a wedding ceremony for two rhinoceroses. While at a dental convention, he attended the rhino wedding at a lion farm in West Palm Beach Fla., last month."

Jack and Hazel were married in July 1970, but that December the indefatigable Gazette was telling its readers: "Their much desired consummation has not yet occurred . . . Phoenix Zoo Director Jack L. Tinker predicts romance will bud for them next spring when it's warmer and cozier." It was not to be. A month later the paper declared: "No Stork On Way For Gorilla, Tests Show." Mr. Tinker was quoted as saying, "What people have to understand is that Jack had never before seen another animal, let alone another gorilla. He's got a lot to learn." The truth was that Jack, like many another male who hangs about pickup bars and Playboy Clubs, could talk better than he could perform.

The Arizona Republic discussed the possibility of hormone shots and aphrodisiacs, and then sought to excuse Jack by explaining he hadn't had the benefits of sex education: "Any human locked in a cage during the formative years and through puberty, without parents and without examples, would probably have difficulty in becoming a parent."

Then Jack died, and Hazel was a widow once more. On October 19, 1972, the fallen-and-failed lover was encased in a fiberglass tank with formaldehyde preservative and then laid to rest in the Arts Building at Arizona State University at Tempe.

After a decent interval—they still observe such niceties here—Hazel was back on the list of this city's eligibles. The Gazette called for "someone to procure 'a virile young stud' for Hazel, and then reported that: "The possibility of the Phoenix Zoo showing a pornographic movie to Hazel to stimulate romantic inclinations has prompted much conversation around town. The London Zoo developed the film (entitled 'Wham Bang, Thank You Ma'm' and running 30 seconds) with the idea of gorilla see, gorilla do."

Next, the Republic ran a headline saying: "Gorilla Will Take 3rd Hubby," and announced that Hazel was going to the San Diego Zoo to practice group sex or communal marriage or polygamy with two females named Alvila and Dolly and "a tall, $10,000, 400-pound fellow called Trib," after the local newspaper which donated him to the Wild Animal Park. A last report was filed specially for the Gazette from California: "The gorilla lovebirds" of "the headline love affair of gorilladom" were "love-dovey," as the paper info.new.us readers: "Monkey Business Just Fine With Hazel and Her Friend."

Sen. Rolison Is 'Shocked' Over PSC Electric Proposal

ALBANY
"Unbelievable and shocking," said State Sen. Jay P. Rolison (R-39th Dist.) in describing his reaction to a suggestion by the State Public Service Commission that the commission spread the cost of usage in all electric homes over the bills of other utility customers.

He said the proposal should be rejected with all haste. "Recalling that electric utilities by advertisements and exhibits sought to convince people to build or remodel to utilize only electrical energy, Rolison said part of the sales pitch was that increased electrical use, as an alternative to gas or oil, would result in lower unit costs.

"I see no justification to now impose the higher costs of such service on people who utilize other sources of energy, some of which are not under Public Service Commission control," Rolison said.

"Many persons prefer oil or gas for certain purposes. Others own homes which are not or could not be insulated to accommodate electric heat.

"I believe that the commission is treading on dangerous, if not illegal, ground in endeavoring to penalize those who do not have all electric homes by imposing upon them the burden of paying a part of the cost of service to all electrical homes," he said.

"That those who are faced with high bills because they have high electrical usage need relief cannot be denied. But those who use other energy sources have also faced increases for the services furnished."

Rolison said that "Because the utilities engaged in such an extensive campaign to convert customers to all electric homes, perhaps they and the commission should consider steps which would grant relief, without increasing the burden on other users of electricity and users of other energy sources.

"I am expressing the tremendous opposition of my constituents to that suggestion in a letter to the Public Service Commission," Rolison said. I believe that the commission must be made aware of the feelings of the people. That is why I requested that the recent public hearing on rate increases be held in Poughkeepsie.

"A way must be found to relieve the cost burden on those who have all electric homes or who use electric heat. Many of them face a desperate financial plight. However, we cannot increase the burden of those who may use the other energy sources and use electricity for purposes other than heating."

Gilman Denounces Rate Hike Request

MIDDLETOWN Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman (R-26th Dist.) has denounced a request by Orange and Rockland utilities proposed to the Public Service Commission "a three-pronged approach to keeping rates low," automatic fuel cost charges to be passed on to the consumer. Gilman also feels that any fuel cost increase should be subject to an automatic three-month delay to permit those prices to stabilize or decrease.

He also proposes a sharing of fuel costs, with 50 per cent of all fuel increases being borne by the company and 50 per cent by the consumer."

Gilman noted that "instead of having to search for the cheapest fuel, processed in the most economical manner, all New York State utilities may now make purchases without concerning themselves either with the cost or the justification of the fuel costs before the PSC."

Gilman, who had testified against the earlier rate hike request by Orange and Rockland said it was "incredible to believe that we are back here so early, just within a matter of days, in opposition to a further increase."

Gilman called on the PSC to "undertake a full scale review of the rationale for the rate increases that are being sought today."

New Gas Ruling Is Announced

WASHINGTON, D.C. gasoline retailers has been announced by Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman. A new ruling that may make more gasoline available to Ulster, Orange and Rockland retailers, organized by Gilman, S. Edwards, deputy director of the New York State Emergency Fuel Office, Alex Sharpe, Ulster County energy coordinator, Arthur Beiniks, energy coordinator for Orange County and Albert Claccio, public affairs officer for the Internal Revenue Service.

Raffuel said three of the five oil companies FEO ordered back into New York earlier this year have already begun complying with the order. The federal, state and county energy officials cautioned the gasoline dealers to prepare themselves for possible future gasoline shortages.

New Jersey Oks Erie RR Agreement

WASHINGTON, D.C. The State of New Jersey has tentatively approved an agreement to provide new passenger rail equipment for the Erie Lackawanna Railroad's Port Jervis to Hoboken line. Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman R-26th Dist. has been informed.

The tri-party agreement between Metropolitan Transportation Authority Erie and New Jersey, will make available a new locomotive and six new passenger cars. This equipment will be put into a "pool" from which Erie will be able to draw two locomotives and 15 cars, to assemble two trains of new equipment for the Port Jervis to Hoboken line.

"This approval brings the long battle to improve passenger rail service in our region closer to a final triumph," Gilman said.

"Our commuters have been waiting almost four years for this new equipment. This ap-

Parking Meters For Kingston By Mid-Summer

KINGSTON chairman of Traffic and maintenance committee of the Council and Mayor John E. Finch's Committee on Traffic and Transportation, Wednesday night's meeting of the Traffic Committee and Finance Committee and Means Committee of the Common Council are carried out.

Alderman Peter J. Mancuso, chairman of the Traffic and maintenance committee of the Council and Mayor John E. Finch's Committee on Traffic and Transportation, Wednesday night's meeting of the Traffic Committee and Finance Committee and Means Committee of the Common Council are carried out.

Mancuso said today. "We are told that delivery takes from 30 to 45 days." In between would be a period of about a month for advertising of bids. The committee met last night with City Treasurer Francis H. Law, Patrolman Richard Scherer, traffic officer and Edward Finn, meter man for the city.

Presentations were offered by manufacturers' representatives from Duncan Parking Meters and Rockwell Parking Meters. The difference, Mancuso says, is that Duncan offers only the manually operated meter while Rockwell offers manual and automatic.

Mancuso says another meeting, what he hopes will be the final planning meeting "to put it all together for presentation to the Council," will be held on April 15.

Assembly Votes To Halt UN Protection

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — The New York State Assembly today voted to halt New York City police protection for United Nations headquarters, despite a Democrat's claim that it would drive the UN out of the city.

Franz Leichter, a Manhattan Democrat, said.

"I don't want to start an international crisis," said the bill's sponsor, Assemblyman Vincent Riccio, a Brooklyn Republican, explained during a debate earlier this week. "I'm just concerned about police protection for the people."

Supporters of the legislation argue that using city policemen to guard the delegation buildings takes police protection from other parts of the city. The Police Department provides guards for five headquarters, the Soviet Union, Egypt, Iraq, Syria and Israel.

Riccio said his bill, passed 89-40 and sent to the Senate, still permitted police protection if a threat of violence develops.

Six Injured In Accident

TOWN OF RED HOOK

Two persons were hospitalized and four others injured late Wednesday afternoon in a three-car crash which police said was caused by a motorist turning into the path of an oncoming vehicle.

The crash occurred on Route 9G at about 5:15 p.m. Rhinebeck State Police said a car driven by William Von Hofe, 80, of Germantown, turned into the path of a car driven by Craig Simmons, 21, of Tivoli. The Simmons car then careened into a third vehicle driven by Ann Roff, 25, of Tivoli, which was traveling south behind the Von Hofe car.

Simmons and Miss Roff were both admitted to Northern Dutchess Hospital. They were listed in satisfactory condition today. Von Hofe and three passengers in the Roff car were treated and released at Northern Dutchess Hospital for injuries suffered in the crash.

Von Hofe was issued summonses for failure to yield the right of way and for operating an uninsured motor vehicle, state police said.

Meanwhile, an eight-year-old Kingston girl was listed in satisfactory condition today at Kingston Hospital after sustaining injuries Wednesday afternoon when she was struck by a car on Cornell Street.

Gilbert W. Glass, 46, of P. O. Box 25, West Hurley, the driver of the car, told police the girl, Mary Jo Miller of 56 Emerick Street, darted in front of his car from behind a truck that was stopped in the oncoming lane.

No summonses were issued.

77 Killed In Plane Crash

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — A DC4 carrying miners from a conference in Botswana to their home base in Malawi crashed shortly after takeoff today and mine officials said all 77 persons aboard were killed.

First reports gave no explanation for the crash of the four-engine aircraft, operated by the Wenela Mining Organization. It was the company's first mishap since it began flying from southern Africa to Malawi in 1952.

The company said 75 of the victims were miners and the other two were the pilot and copilot of the craft. The miners were en route to Blantyre, Malawi, following a mining conference.

Times Square 'Tourists' Top Night With 16 Arrests

squadron of police officers disguised as tourists feigned out-of-town bewilderment while patrolling the Times Square area for muggers and pickpockets. Authorities said the evening ended with a string of 16 arrests.

Twenty-three officers made their ostensibly touristic sweep of the crime-ridden area Wednesday between 6:30 p.m. and 11 p.m.

Typical of the arrests were two made by the team of Detective John Abate and his partner Thomas Sullivan, police said.

Abate strolled along Eighth Avenue near 40th Street at 10:40 p.m. gazing at the skyline when he was surprised from the rear and his wallet was taken.

Police said Sullivan rushed in to arrest James Carpenter, 38, of Manhattan, who was later charged with grand larceny and criminal possession of stolen property.

Just minutes earlier, Sullivan had been similarly assaulted as he walked along Eighth Avenue near 43rd Street with camera in hand, he said.

Police said Abate arrested the fleeing suspect, Leo Vetri, 36, of Manhattan, and charged him with grand larceny and criminal possession of stolen property.

The other 14 arrests were for similar offenses, police said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices headed higher today as Wednesday's technical rebound continued.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up about a point, and gainers led losers by about a 3-2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said some investors were encouraged by the market's upswing Wednesday in the face of further increases in banks' prime lending rates.

In today's economic news, the Labor Department reported that wholesale prices rose at a 15.6 per cent annual rate in March, a slightly higher rate of increase than the 14.4 per cent figure recorded for February.

Prices on the Big Board included American Telephone, up 1/4 at 49 1/4; Combustion Engineering, unchanged at 84 1/4; and Pittston Co., down 1/4 at 32.

Among oil service stocks, Halliburton was up 1/4 at 152; J. Ray McDermott climbed 1/4 to 73 1/4; and Schlumberger rose 1/4 to 104 1/4.

Wednesday was the market's best day in close to a month.

The Dow Jones industrial average climbed 11.42 points to 858.03, in its biggest rise since March 5.

March Price Hike Smallest in Months

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The increase in wholesale prices during March was the smallest in five months, primarily because of declines in the prices of farm products, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

The BLS said prices pushed upward by 1.2 per cent, compared with a 1.5 per cent boost during February. The March figures continued a decline in the rate of rising wholesale prices that began after January's 3.5 per cent leap.

Substantial increases for metals and other products required for industry offset the farm price drop, with the rise in industrial commodities responsible for about 28 per cent of March's increase.

Steel mill products were up 5.5 per cent and iron and steel scrap 14.7 per cent in March, the BLS said, with substantial increases reported in prices of fabricated metal products.

Fuel price increases contributed about 25 per cent of the March increase, the BLS said—the first time in six months that fuels had not led the upward trend. The fuel prices hikes primarily were attributed to oil, with electric power, coal, natural gas and coke also rising.

Farm products, however, dropped on the wholesale markets for the first time in four months, with the index for farm products moving downward by 4.2 per cent from February.

The major farm price declines came in livestock, grains, raw cotton, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables and live poultry.

Processed foods also dropped 1 per cent, with the declines sharply offsetting increases in sugar, dairy products, beverages and bakery products.

Wholesale prices, which were increasing at a rate double the retail price hikes six months ago, continued to level off to planes approaching the most recent rises on retail markets.

The last cost of living figures released by the BLS during March showed a 1.3 per cent boost in retail prices.

Wholesale prices also jumped on a number of consumer products, including household appliances, furniture, home electronic equipment and floor covering.

In the transportation field, higher prices for auto parts and railroad equipment outweighed a small decline in the price of automobiles.

ALBANY and forms of energy," Motzkin said, explaining that fuel oil placed on suppliers of other utilities to have an advantage over them for themselves, more than 200 representatives of the fuel oil industry met in Albany Wednesday with leaders of the state Legislature, and with individual legislators.

Citizens Involvement Seminar Set

SAUGERTIES
A Citizens Involvement Seminar in Saugerties has been announced for May 15 and May 22 at a time and place to be announced, according to Paul Miller, chairman of the two-evening program.

"Would you like to know how your town, village and county government works? How the town's budget is arrived at? What goes into the assessor's evaluation of your property? The role the political parties play in community life?" Miller asked.

To help answer these and hundreds of similar questions, speakers from both political parties in Saugerties as well as local community organizations and the League of Women Voters plan to cooperate in the forthcoming seminar, Miller said.

"We believe we've got something here that will interest young and old alike," said Miller. "We hope to attract into more active participation in community activities those individuals still standing on the sidelines, so to speak, wanting to do more but not quite sure how to go about it. But the presentation will be of sufficient depth to provide an excellent reorientation course for those who are already active," he said.

Miller pointed out that ground rules have been set up to insure a strictly non-partisan discussion. "While we are naturally proud that the Saugerties Democratic Committee hit upon the idea," Miller went on to say, "we are even more pleased and grateful that so many people in both political parties have responded warmly and are anxious to join in making the effort a success. We think it is an enterprise that will benefit the whole Saugerties community."

Miller said that negotiations are still under way regarding the specific speakers for each evening but that full detail on the program would be ready soon.

Dutto Guest Of GOP Club

SAUGERTIES
Ulster County Health Commissioner Dr. Bartholmew J. Dutto, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Saugerties Republican Club held at the Sawyerkill Restaurant.

Dr. Dutto spoke concerning the Health Department's food service establishment inspections, which have been highly successful.

Discussion was held during the business meeting with regard to the possibility of the club sponsoring a child at summer camp.

Reports were given by Lasher Britenbach and Ray Smith as well as Frank Greco who told of progress in plans for the annual spring dance to be held April 20 at the Flamingo Restaurant.

Saugerties Democrats Hear Decker

Town Planning Club's Topic

SAUGERTIES
Town planning in Saugerties was the subject of a talk by S. Morrow Decker at a recent meeting of the Democratic Club of Saugerties at Mt. Marion Inn.

Decker stressed that Saugerties will continue to grow, and that this growth must be controlled. With no legal restraints on commercial development, future growth could be disastrous to the town. "The future quality of life in Saugerties," said Decker, "depends on how well we plan for the inevitable growth."

Decker explained the function of the Planning Board as purely advisory. The Planning Board creates a land-use map that suggests how best town land can be developed, he said. The Zoning Commission then implements the zoning ordinance from this land-use map. "At this point," said Decker, "the land-use map is very flexible. The Planning Board is anxious to hear the needs and opinions of concerned Saugerties citizens." Decker concluded by saying that "we are at a critical point in the growth of the town. All Saugerties citizens should take an active role in the shaping of the town's future. They should attend the Planning Board meetings to express their needs. Only in this way will Saugerties develop to satisfy the needs of the people rather than just the needs of the select few," he concluded.

In other business, Maurice Hinchey Jr., Town Democratic Chairman and State Democratic Committeeman, reported on the current status of upcoming elections as well as the Public Service hearing in Poughkeepsie, on the Central Hudson rate increases.

Hinchey said that "a large crowd, mostly from Ulster County, came to protest the rate increases."

Frank Sinnott reported that tickets for the May 4, dinner dance have gone on sale. The affair will be held at the Flamingo, and will feature roast beef.

Nicholas Angell, recently announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 25th Congressional District, will be among the speakers.

The next meeting of the club will be held at 8 p.m. on April 23, at the Bluestone Lodge. All are invited to hear featured speaker Ed Nadell, professor of Economics at Ulster County Community College.

County AARP Elects Officers

NEW PALTZ Ulster County Chapter 975, American Association of Retired Persons, has elected officers for the coming year.

The new slate of officers, who will be installed at the chapter's installation banquet on June 6, includes: Mrs. Elsie Lorenzo, president; Mrs. Marian Turk, first vice-president; William Eggers, second vice president; Mrs. Marie Taylor, treasurer; Mrs. Edna Eggers, assistant treasurer and Mrs. Rose Battefeld, secretary.

Heads of various committees who will serve on the Board of Directors include Mrs. Helen Gill, program; Mrs. Teresa Abbruzzese, legislation; Mrs. Bertha Ale, sunshine; Mrs. Helen Ljungquist, publicity; Mrs. Jessie Sheppard, refreshments; Herbert Frost, community service; Mrs. Pearl Beng, membership; and Miss Catherine Dowd, reception. Past President Joseph Lorenzo will serve as nominating chairman.

There were no nominations from the floor to oppose the slate submitted by William Eggers, nominating committee chairman, and the slate was elected by acclamation.

Members of the chapter volunteered to replace approximately 70 chairs lost by the New Palitz VFW post, which furnishes the meeting place for AARP. The chairs were lost in a fire that totally destroyed the VFW building last year.

Outgoing President Lorenzo called on members to write to area legislators urging them to vote against a bill (No. 8679) in the New York State Assembly which would abolish the Office of the Aging and put senior citizen affairs under the Department of Family Services. Lorenzo pointed out that the move would affect matching funds they now receive from the state for such things as bus trips.

Members of the chapter congratulated Mrs. Mildred Reuger of Gardiner, recently named a deaconess in the Reformed Church of Gardiner.

Mrs. Reuger, the first woman to be named to this position, will serve on the church's consistory.

Lorenzo announced several upcoming events, including a family dinner on Easter Sunday, April 14, a Hickory Manor on Route 299, the Minnewaska Trail. The annual installation dinner for new officers will be held at the Hedges Restaurant on Route 9W in West Park on Thursday, June 6. Mrs. Marian Turk will handle arrangements.

All tickets have been sold for the trip to Troy for the Icecapades show Sunday, April 7. Lorenzo announced and a family dinner has been tentatively scheduled for May 19 at Leherb's Restaurant on Route 32 south of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Markle will be in charge of the Dutch treat dinner.

Lorenzo also announced a trip to Bushkill Falls in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania in early June to see the rhododendron blooming. Mrs. Marie Roberts is in charge of arrangements.

Another tentative event is a sail on the Hudson River and Topics scheduled for discussion during the year are mental health, alcoholism, simple first aid, diabetes, and means of raising funds to maintain the stock of sick room supplies stored in the loan closet.

The amblyopia project will be chaired by Mrs. Anthony Nucci. Screening will be held at the Clinton Town Hall in late spring or early summer.

For Final Say on Lloyd Plant

Kimpel Urges Regional Authority

WARWICK Helmut Kimpel, Republican primary candidate for Richard E. Schermerhorn's state senate seat, has called on area legislators to create a regional power authority that would have the final say in construction of a nuclear power plant in the Town of Lloyd.

Kimpel warned that only a regional authority, which could be established under home rule provisions and state enabling legislation, would have the legal teeth to enforce local planning and safety considerations in the communities affected by the proposed $600 million nuclear power plant.

The New York State Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA) has proposed construction of the nuclear plant on 2,300 acres in the Northeast corner of the Town of Lloyd.

Kimpel said he fully supports legislation proposed by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th) that would impose a one-year moratorium on nuclear power plant construction, and a bill co-sponsored by Assemblyman Emeel C. Betros (R-99), which would allow a municipality to make the final decision on whether or not it wants a power plant within the town boundaries.

"However," added Kimpel, "in view of the possible impact a power plant has across municipal borders, I believe there is a need for a regional power authority similar to the Regional Stewart Airport Authority I proposed last year."

It is time that citizens and their representatives from local business and labor organizations, planners, environmental specialists and county government. He said its purpose would be to "make sure requirements are not met."

"The utilities and the AEC simply don't know enough about the process itself to justify its potentially treacherous continuation. Until there can be absolute guarantees about nuclear plant safety, and environmentally secure means for waste disposal or storage, further expansion is foolhardy," said Bellinger. He suggested that monies now being spent on reactors could much more reasonably be put into coal gasification plants and solar energy research.

Against Nuclear Expansion

Bellinger Adds a Plank

NEW PALTZ Donald Bellinger, the New Palitz resident who is an independent candidate for governor this year on the Real Party ticket, has added a plank against nuclear expansion to his growing platform of proposed changes in state government.

Bellinger added the plank at a recent speech at the State University College at New Palitz.

He proposed that all nuclear-related activities within the state such as power plants and storage facilities be held at their present levels and no further expansion of these facilities be allowed.

"These nuclear power plants are the most expensive, dangerous, and possibly insane way man has ever devised to boil water and turn it into steam for generating electricity," Bellinger stated. "The utilities and the AEC simply don't know enough about the process itself to justify its potentially treacherous continuation. Until there can be absolute guarantees about nuclear plant safety, and environmentally secure means for waste disposal or storage, further expansion is foolhardy," said Bellinger. He suggested that monies now being spent on reactors could much more reasonably be put into coal gasification plants and solar energy research.

Congressional Hopeful

Endorsement for Angell

YORKTOWN Democratic Committee." Nicholas B. Angell, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the 25th District, has received the unanimous endorsement of the Yorktown Democratic Committee and "was warmly received by the Ulster County

The 41-year-old attorney and former official for the International Development Agency, said it has been a pleasant surprise for him to discover that there is real enthusiasm for his candidacy. Angell said the people he has spoken to seem to share his feeling that government in the country is at a standstill... "that we must do something about that situation and do it in a hurry."

"I'm an activist. I speak my mind. People seem to like that," Angell suggested. A resident of Putnam County, he recently spoke before the Putnam Valley Democratic Club, the executive committee of the Westchester County Democratic Committee, Cortland and Peekskill Democratic Committee and on the campuses of Vassar and Dutchess County Community College.

Free Libertarians Come Out for Cohen

POUGHKEEPSIE Poughkeepsie Congressional candidate Sanford Cohen on Sunday received the official endorsement of the New York Free Libertarian Party.

The endorsement came to the school teacher candidate for the 25th Congressional District at the FLP's annual three-day convention in New York City. Cohen began his campaign 22 months in advance, and also intends to seek the endorsements of both the Conservative and Liberal Parties.

He commented, "Libertarians see individual and economic freedom as absolute rights and inseparable principles. We oppose collectivism as much as we oppose forced morality. Libertarianism is clearly the alternative political philosophy for people of all parties who wish to work for the extension of human freedom."

Cohen's cry in the campaign has been that he does not want to make laws in Congress, but to repeal laws. "Very little government is the best kind," is one slogan he employs.

Lions Present Visual Device

KINGSTON — The Sight Conservation Committee of the Ulster County Lions Clubs recently presented an enlarging device to assist visually handicapped and legally blind children in the Kingston Consolidated School District.

Charles Montafia, chairman of the project for the Lions Clubs, said they were pleased to underwrite the project as another in a series of community services for sight conservation. The enlarging device, which cost $1,700, is easily operated. It projects written work of the student or printed matter onto a television receiver, magnifying the image to a maximum of 60 times normal size. School district officials said that any group interested in seeing the instrument in operation could make arrangements by contacting Kenneth Hyatt at the district's administration center, Crown Street, Kingston. Mrs. Ernestine Daum, teacher of the visually handicapped, called the Lions Clubs gift "one of the finest pieces of equipment available today for these particular children."

Blood Bank Head Announces New Law

KINGSTON — Arthur C. Chipp, president of the Ulster County Blood Bank, Inc., has announced that the blood bank has been informed by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell of a new law which permits 17-year-olds to donate blood without parental consent.

Previously, the minimum age limit had been 18 years.

Last November, Chipp said, a joint announcement was made by the American Association of Blood Banks and the American Red Cross, stating agreement had been reached on this change in minimum age limits. The law legalizing the change has now been signed into law by Gov. Wilson, according to Chipp.

Chipp concluded by saying that the Ulster County Blood Bank encourages 17-year-olds and over to become familiar and participate in the local blood program. All blood donated remains in Ulster County for use in the county's hospitals, unless emergency conditions warrant it being sent elsewhere.

Revised Planning Maps Available

ALBANY. Revised planning maps of areas in Ulster County are now available for purchase from the State Department of Transportation.

Transportation Commissioner Raymond T. Schuler has announced that DOT has completed updating the 24 quadrangle maps in its Planimetric Map Series for the county. The maps are widely used for planning and reference by government agencies and private individuals.

"This is the second edition of these maps, which the department publishes under its responsibilities as the state's mapping agency," the commissioner said. "The first edition was published in 1968. They have proven highly useful not only to department planners but also to local governments, engineering firms and the general public."

Each map sheet in the series is printed in black and white, measures 23 by 30 inches and covers an area about six by eight miles.

These and other maps are sold by the department as paper prints or reproducible film positives. Ordering information and forms may be obtained from the Map Information Unit, New York State Department of Transportation, State Campus, Albany, New York, 12226.

The revised maps show road and street networks, railroad lines, airports, civil boundaries and, for the first time, updated building information. Heavily built-up sections are indicated by shaded areas. Within these shaded areas, although all streets are shown, only landmark buildings are portrayed. Outside of the shaded areas individual buildings are shown.

Larger scale maps of the communities in Ulster County are also being prepared as part of the department's series and are expected to be completed by mid-summer.

Earl E. Proper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Proper, Shokan, was awarded Scouting's highest rank by Nelson Barnett, former Rip Van Winkle Council Commissioner.

Scout Proper began his Scouting career as a Cub Scout in Pack 63. He joined Troop 63 in December, 1967 and played an important role in the activities of the troop, presently holding the office of junior assistant scoutmaster. Since joining the troop he has earned three attendance awards, a 50 miller award and became a member of the Order of the Arrow, serving as a chapter chief during 1972-73.

Presently a senior at Onteora Central School, Proper is a member of the National Honor Society, Senior Seminar and is a varsity letterman for football and track. He has been accepted at Lenior-Rhyne College and plans to attend this September.

The Court of Honor was held in observance of the 64th anniversary of the Scouting movement. Life Scout Robert Braun served as master of ceremonies beginning with the candlelight investiture of Scouts John Galloway, Steven Norman and David Thompson by Scoutmaster Thomas Fickus. Tenderfoot progress awards were presented to George Mandrick, Gardner Creason, Dan Fineran and Carl Swenson by Assistant Scoutmaster George Fineran. Senior Patrol Leader Ken Every presented the first class progress award to Jeff Best and Scott Winslow. Michael Howe received the star scout award from junior assistant scoutmaster William Davidson, who in turn received the life scout award from District Commissioner Frank McMahon. Junior assistant scoutmaster John Mandrick and assistant senior patrol leader Dan Adsit presented a total of 29 merit badges, all earned since December, to the following: Gardner Creason, Carl Swenson, Scott Winslow, William Davidson, Eric Hunport, Michael Howe, Robert Wood, Bryn Gabriel, Kenneth Church, John Every, Ken Every, Steve Barber and Robert Braun.

Scribe Scott Winslow presented service stars to the following: one-year to Jeff Peters, and Scott Winslow; two-year to John Black, Greg Bost, Jeff Bost and William Wood; three-year to Eric Fisher and Vincent Santonia and five-year to Robert Braun. District Commissioner Frank McMahon presented the troop's charter to Committee Chairman Earl W. Proper, marking the 38th such presentation since the troop was founded in 1936.

Scoutmaster Fickus presented the blue and silver National President's bar to all members of the troop as recognition of the Troop 63 achievement of the six program goals established by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America. The program concluded with a promotion for summer camp attendance by members of the troop staff and Barnett.

About 125 persons were in attendance for this special event, which was preceded by a family-style covered dish supper. Troop 63 is sponsored by the Olive Memorial American Legion Post 1627.

Those making the trip were Tom Severson, Tim Feeney, Arthur Fiore, Paul Forgey, Sean Feeney and Darren Playford. Mrs. Sue Ankrom and Mrs. Linda Forgey accompanied the Cubs.

He engaged the Plaza Baby for a half-day's fishing on Saturday and asked the skipper to pick up a pack of beer for him on the way.

"He said he wanted to catch something big—something he could mount," said Tellam.

The mate said the man started to climb up the port side, slipped and the gun went off without hitting anything.

"Webb" had left a $100 bill for them on a seat and a note asking that the incident not be reported to police.

"I have neither family nor friends . . . no one knows I'm here," police said the note read.

BOSTON (UPI) — In the efficiency of the reactor halls of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Boston Edison Co., the name of Daniel Ford is like waving a red flag at a fighting bull.

The 25-year-old graduate student from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology has single-handedly idled Boston Edison's huge Pilgrim Nuclear Boston Edison became inter- ested in nuclear power plant safety while working on a thesis about the risk factors. He said he found there was no information available on which calculations could be based.

"The longer I looked into it, the stranger it seemed. Finally, I discovered that I had become the only expert on the subject."

Ford, who owns stock in the AEC board, said he would decide after he returned to Washington how much time Ford could have to gather the evidence and present it to the board. The date has yet to be set.

Meanwhile, the Pilgrim Plant stands idle. A company spokesman said they have to burn $305,000 worth of oil daily to make up the lost electricity from atomic-fired power plants.

At Half-Way
House of LifeBy MIKE ROTHENBERGER
Dale Carnegie & Assoc., Inc., New York.
Copyright 1965.
Dale Carnegie & Assoc., Inc.

The story is told of a group of businessmen who went on a vacation in Switzerland. One evening, a professional mountain climber came to their hotel to deliver a lecture on mountain climbing and to show pictures he had taken during his work.

The men were so intrigued by the event that they asked him to serve as their guide on a climb in the Bavarian Alps.

The day was set, and the arrangements were completed. It was agreed that they would start the climb in the early morning. The day came and the men all met at the foot of the great mountain. They were dressed in warm clothing and rugged boots. Each man carried a pack on his back.

The guide gave the signal and the trip was begun. The men followed him up the path, around rocks and brush and through the tall trees. They climbed for several hours. The further they went, the harder the climb became. The path grew steeper, the rocks larger, but they kept climbing through the crisp cold mountain air.

About 9 o'clock in the forenoon they reached a place called the half-way house. This was a small place about half way up the mountain where climbers could stop for rest and refreshment before going on.

The men went into the half-way house where they unloaded their packs. They enjoyed a cup of steaming hot coffee and a sandwich. Some removed their boots. They took advantage of the time to rest and relax.

When it came time to go, the guide walked over to the door and said, "Alright fellows, it is time to continue our climb."

One of the group approached the guide, and in a low voice said, "You know sir, I seem to be having trouble with my foot. My boot apparently does not fit well. I am afraid it might cause some trouble, so if it doesn't matter too much to you, I think I will just wait here at the half-way house and join you on the way down." Another fellow stepped up to the guide and said, "You see, my knee seems to be bothering me a bit. It is an old injury that I got when I played football in high school. Now, if it is all right with you, I believe I won't go on today. Maybe I can finish the climb some other time. I would rather just wait here at the half-way house and join you and the others on the way back."

One by one they went to the guide and made one trivial excuse or another until only a very small number were willing to finish the climb. The guide, with his handful of men, began the second half of the climb.

It was mid-afternoon. One of the men who had remained at the half-way house was looking out through a large picture window enjoying the beautiful view of the majestic snowcapped Alpine peaks. He saw something way up the side of the mountain that captured his attention. He called to his companions and pointed out a spot near the top of the peak. He said, "Look fellows, there goes Bill, there goes Tom, there goes Joe. They're going all the way up to the top!"

What a picture of life. We see so many capable men and women who start the climb up the mountain of a successful and happy life; people who have great potential ability and unlimited opportunity; but so few succeed. For one insignificant reason or another, so many choose not to persevere; they choose not to develop and apply their talents and abilities. They take the path of least resistance. They relax and remain at the half-way house of life when, with just a little more effort and determination, with a little more development and preparation, they could easily go all the way up to the top.

AP Corrects
Wolfson Story

KINGSTON

(The Associated Press has corrected misinformation circulated among newspaper and other clients last November in a story dealing with confirmation hearings held by the House Judiciary Committee on Vice President Gerald P. Ford, then House Minority Leader.)

WASHINGTON, D.C.

(AP) — On November 16, 1973 an Associated Press dispatch described Louis E. Wolfson as a "convicted stock swindler" and said he had been convicted of "stock fraud." Mr. Wolfson has never been convicted of stock fraud or manipulation. He was convicted of selling his own shares of a corporation's stock, in which he was one of the controlling group, without having first filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Kingston Arterial...Future in Doubt

By HUGH REYNOLDS

The news on the proposed Kingston-Ulster Arterial, that long delayed four-lane highway connecting Port Ewen with the State Legislature in this all the way to bad news. Route 32, is both good and bad.

Or rather, to be more accurate, acquisition costs through the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project. Now, the not so good news is that at some future point in time could very well make it year's budget for right of way Transportation Commissioner

Raymond T. Schuler, answering inquiries from Mayor Francis R. Koenig, wrote the mayor that "in all candor" he (Schuler) didn't expect construction to start on the road until next year, if then. The federal government's requirements for environmental impact studies are being blamed by Schuler for the latest in a long series of delays on the road. "In all candor, I can hold little hope for success" (completion of the study), this year," Schuler wrote Koenig. "Next year looks better."

Koenig wants something more definite than that before next year as he hopes to "close out" the Broadway East Project this year. "I don't see how we can close it out until this thing is squared away," Koenig told the Freeman. Koenig says he has no firm point of view. The state gives assurances from Schuler that no indication at all on when the road will be built even after it intends to acquire property the federally mandated environmental impact study is way (outside the urban renewal completed. He has no area) of the road. The proposed assurances that, first, the study road runs from Port Ewen, will be favorable (to the road) across the Rondout Creek on and second that if it is, the a new bridge where Miron state will have the money (an estimated $25 million) to build circle at the top of Delaware Avenue and then out to Route 32, roughly parallel with East Chester Street. The Kingston-Ulster arterial is crucial to the city in two respects: it is considered the "key" to final development of the urban renewal Broadway East and it forms the bulk of "non-cash credits" which city officials figure will allow Kingston to carry out money it (the agency) has some $25 million of urban already spend for land renewal with but any cash outlay by the city.

Power Plant Impact Study

STAMFORD Mounting public concern over development of electrical generating facilities in the Catskill region has prompted the Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills to contract with Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress to examine the major economic, social and environmental effects that power plants would have on the area.

Albert G. Hall, executive director of the state study commission, said Pattern's study will analyze current and future construction programs proposed by public and private utilities having a franchise in the Catskill region. Hall said the emphasis will be on how these power plant construction programs relate to local community objectives in land use planning and development.

The executive director added, however, that issues pertaining to public health and safety aspects of nuclear generators are outside the scope of the Pattern study.

The two areas in the Catskill region most affected by power plant proposals are Ulster and Greene Counties. The Power Authority of the State of New York has proposed location of a nuclear generating facility in the Town of Athens in Greene County, and the Atomic and Space Development Authority has proposed construction of an atomic plant in the Town of Lloyd in Ulster County.

Citizens' groups in both areas have strongly condemned the construction proposals, and several local government bodies have taken stands against the construction of nuclear generating facilities.

In addition to the two most prominent sites, numerous other locations in Ulster and Greene Counties have been mentioned as possible sites for oil-fired generating plants, although none have yet been formally accepted.

The Catskill study area encompasses the counties of Ulster, Greene, Sullivan, Schoharie, Delaware and Otsego, as well as a small part of Albany County, Dutchess County, where several other sites are considered ideal for power plant construction, is not a part of the study area.

According to Hall, Pattern for Progress "has performed similar work for the State Atomic and Space Development Authority, and its membership is broadly representative of the many viewpoints in the Mid-Hudson and Catskill regions, from business and industry to conservation and environmental groups."

The state commission will compile the results of its overall study of the Catskill region, which will include the Pattern study on electrical generating facilities—and then submit its recommendations on the future development of the Catskill region to the state legislature in Albany. The commission's final report is due next March.

Commission Favors Tree-Cutting

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills proposed Wednesday that a small portion of the state-owned forest preserve in the Catskills be removed from the "forever wild" protections of the state constitution.

The "forever wild" provision bans cutting of trees on the forest preserve in both the Adirondacks and the Catskills.

The commission said the protection should be removed from about 4,500 acres of the 248,500 acres of forest preserve in the Catskills, to enhance game management and recreational uses.

Cutting down trees in such forest areas leads to the development of smaller vegetation, which is more hospitable to deer.

Affected would be 19 large parcels of forest preserve land of 100 acres or more, all of them outside the Catskill Park but within the general Catskill region.

The commission, created in 1971, made the recommendations in an interim report to the legislature.

The commission's final report is due next year, and it said that at that time it will make recommendations in the most controversial aspect of its work—land-use control. The commission is expected to recommend a state-supervised zoning system for the Catskills similar to, although much less restrictive than, the one imposed last year on the Adirondacks.

In the interim, the commission urged local governments to increase their land-use planning activities and urged state agencies to help them do so.

Changing the "forever wild" provisions would require a constitutional amendment.

The commission is studying a 4.14-million-acre region consisting of Delaware, Greene,

Bell to Attend Dedication

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) will take part in the American Water Works Association dedication of a plaque at the Kingston Water Department's filter plant in Zena, designating the facility as a National Historic Landmark.

The dedication is scheduled to take place Friday, April 5, at 12:30 p. m. and will be followed by a luncheon at the Kirkland Hotel in Kingston.

Bell said it is expected that Dr. George E. Symons, president of the American Water Works Association, will be present to make the award together with the officers and members of the board of governors of the New York State section of the association.

Bell is vice chairman of the Temporary State Commission on the Water Supply Needs of Southeastern New York which has been studying the water requirements of the 13 counties in that section of the state.

This Could Be the Day for Hammerin' Hank

CINCINNATI (UPI) — This could be the day that Hammerin' Hank Aaron finally catches up to the immortal Babe Ruth.

It's the scheduled official opening of the 1974 baseball season with Aaron needing only one home run for the Atlanta Braves against the Cincinnati Reds to match the immortal Ruth's all-time record total of 714 major league home runs.

This could be the day, if: . . . If this tornado-battered area doesn't get more bad weather before the scheduled 2:30 p.m. EDT starting time at Riverfront Stadium.

. . . If angry Braves manager Eddie Mathews and cool Hank agree in a last-minute conference that Aaron will be in the lineup.

. . . And, of course, if pitcher Jack Billingham, the scheduled Cincinnati starter, or another Reds' pitcher makes a mistake and gets a pitch where Big Bad Henry can get that big yellow bat of his on it.

The weather promised to be a problem right down to game time, for there were six tornadoes in the relative vicinity of Cincinnati Wednesday and the forecast was 50 per cent chance of more bad weather, at least rain, today.

And the question of whether Aaron would be in the starting lineup also promised to go down to game time. In fact, it promised to turn into the first major controversy of the 1974 season.

Early this year the Atlanta Braves announced that they wanted Aaron to hit his historic tying and winning homers in Atlanta; so, they said, he wouldn't play in the first three games of the season here. Some time later Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn responded to criticism of that by announcing he "expected" Aaron to play here in his usual pattern, that is, about two out of three games.

That's what has Braves manager Mathews, the guy who has to make the day-to-day decision on whether Aaron plays, ripping.

"He (Kuhn) hasn't talked to Hank and he hasn't talked to me," said Mathews. "He makes a decision and that's it. Nothing else matters — Hank's physical condition, the condition of the field, the weather, nothing."

Mathews said he resents Kuhn's decision because he thinks it puts him "in a bag I can't get out of." He expected to confer with Aaron after they both arrive at the stadium on the banks of the Ohio River and make a decision as to whether Hank will play on the basis of how Hank feels and how the field is.

"The last time I looked I was still the manager of this club and that means I make out the opening day lineup," Mathews said.

As for Aaron himself, the big slugger wasn't saying anything and was trying to stay out of the pre-game limelight.

It's the dignified way he's been conducting himself throughout the whole dispute.

He contented himself to one early remark that he thought it was all right for the Braves to hold him out of the three games in Cincinnati this weekend to starting swinging in the 11-game Atlanta home stand starting Monday night. That got him some criticism.

One man leaping to his defense today was Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson.

"This poor guy — they've got him trapped against the wall," said Anderson. "Aaron shouldn't get any bad publicity."

Anderson said that if Aaron should miss a game, or two, or three here, folks shouldn't start accusing him of ducking out. He pointed out, "Henry's missed an awful lot of games before. The last four or five years it has taken him a month to really get going."

Anderson added, "I hope to God he doesn't get it against us, because I'll get a ton of mail, but I'll really feel sorry for the pitcher he gets it against."

Billingham, a righthander, said, "I don't really care if he hits it off me as long as we win the game. I'm not worrying about Henry and his record. My biggest worry is winning the game."

Billingham insisted there is "no way I'm going to groove the ball to him."

"I'm primary a sinker ball pitcher," Billingham pointed out, "and if I'm throwing my good stuff and put it where I want, he won't get it up in the air."

The husky hurler said that in his six years of pitching in the National League "I've always been very careful with Aaron."

"He's hit four or five home runs off me," Billingham recalled, "but I also remember that the first time I ever faced him I struck him out."

Vice-President Gerald Ford will throw out the ceremonial first pitch, and Carl Morton will be the starting pitcher for Atlanta.

They're the lucky ones — Aaron won't be swinging at their serves.

Hank Aaron — Playing for Two

Mathews: 'Kuhn Making Me the Fall Guy'

By MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Editor

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Atlanta manager Eddie Mathews lashed out at Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Wednesday, bitterly at times, for "making me the fall guy" in the growing Hank Aaron controversy.

Mathews' resentment is based principally on the fact that Kuhn has not bothered to only two more runs to break Babe Ruth's all-time record.

"I love Hank Aaron," said Mathews. "Our whole team loves him, and the world loves him. But we can't get the Commissioner of Baseball to anything to me, or to Hank, he hasn't so much as said a word to me," snapped Mathews, referring to Kuhn. "Who am I? I'm only the manager of the team. I don't count at all?"

Mathews, a teammate of Aaron for 18 years with the Braves while they were still in Milwaukee, made it absolutely clear how he feels about the 40-year-old superstar who needs only two more runs to break Babe Ruth's all-time record.

"I love Hank Aaron," said Mathews. "Our whole team loves him, and the world loves him. But we can't get the Commissioner of Baseball to anything to me, or to Hank, he has put the monkey on my back. That's right — Kuhn hasn't spoken to either Hank or me since he made that announcement of his."

Mathews continued expanding on the way he felt about being "ignored" in the matter by Kuhn.

"He's put me in a bag I can't get out of," said the Braves manager. "Yes, I respect his position and his authority, but what am I supposed to do, sit here like a dummy and not say a word in my own defense?"

This is my only way of striking back. But by not saying anything to me, or to Hank, he

Just Making Sure...

CINCINNATI (UP) — Four-foot-tall Donald Davidson walked into Riverfront Stadium Wednesday afternoon with a towel-covered box and a big paper bag.

Inside were the tools for major-league baseball's top-security project — the Hank Aaron Home Run Ball Affair. The Atlanta Braves and National League officials want to guarantee the authenticity of baseballs hit for homers by Aaron.

The 1974 baseball season opens today with Aaron needing only one homer to tie Babe Ruth's record of 714.

The balls that Aaron hits for Nos. 714 and 715 will become such valuable memorabilia items that the bidding war among several persons and companies for each ball already has gone as high as $15,000.

After all the financial transactions are completed, baseball officials figure the balls eventually will be in the Hall of Fame and they want to make sure the balls are the real things.

Davidson, who serves as traveling secretary and assistant to the chairman of the Braves, is in charge of the secret baseball-marking machine.

While the code is secret, the machine is not too sophisticated. In fact, it resembles the procedure for making sure no one sneaks into a high-school dance.

But the system worked late last season, and Davidson figures to use it for the two important home runs coming up.

Secure in a small room within the Braves' clubhouse at the Stadium, Davidson took the towel off the box and lifted out an ultra-violet lamp.

He rustled the paper sack and pulled out an inkpad and 15 rubber stamps.

He inked one of the stamps and pressed it to a baseball. He pulled the stamp away, and there was nothing on the ball — no mark of any kind.

Davidson then held the ball under the lamp and turned it on. The small numbers 714 mysteriously appeared on the ball.

"That's it," exclaimed Davidson. "That's how we can tell we've got the right one."

Foreman Has Plans

HOUSTON (UPI) — Heavyweight champion George Foreman plans to "knock the neck off" Muhammad Ali in a title bout he has agreed to fight in Africa. But he won't predict the round.

"The fight is no longer a lifetime away," Foreman said, referring to an earlier statement he made about the 15-round Kinshasa, Zaire, bout Sept. 30. "We are pretty much past the talking stage. We have a firm agreement with Video Techniques to fight in Africa."

Foreman returned to his hometown Wednesday to visit his ailing mother, 53-year-old Nancy Foreman, who was hospitalized with high blood pressure the day after her son's two-round technical knockout of Ken Norton in Caracas.

Foreman said he has no doubts he will beat Ali, but he would not say how many rounds he expects to go.

"We could go the full 15," he said. "Every time I train, I count on going the full 15 rounds."

Foreman said he has a lot of respect for the former champ, but he does not like the verbal contests that Ali enjoys.

"The man has a certain gift and if you knock his neck off, which I intend to do, he'll still have that gift," Foreman said. "I don't believe in philosophy, I believe in seology. Ali was talking a lot, but people formed their opinions on what they said, not what he said."

"The wisest statement I ever heard was said to me before the fight in Caracas," Foreman said. "It was that I was the champ so 'be cool.' I didn't know what was meant by it until after the fight and it was that I was the champ and I didn't have to say a bunch of stuff. I could be cool."

Joe Louis gave him that advice.

If he wins his fight with Ali, Foreman said he will have other contenders to face, including Jerry Quarry, Joe Frazier and Oscar Bonevena. "They can do no more than I let them," Foreman said. "And I don't think I'll be letting them do much."

Foreman referred to his seven day stay in Caracas due to a tax dispute with the government of Venezuela as "embarrassing." Although he said nothing could be done about it now, he vowed it would never happen again.

"We'll have some guarantee that it won't happen again before I go into another country," he said. "I don't mind paying taxes, just tell me how much." He said the problem with the Venezuela tax authorities was they could not decide how much his tax would be. He ended up paying $300,000 out of the $700,000 purse and expected ancillaries.

When asked about his plans following the Ali fight in Africa, Foreman said he will fight in the United States, since he has not had a championship bout in his own country.

New World League Starts With Orange Baseballs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sean M. Downey Jr. has this big box of orange baseballs and the title of president of the World Baseball Association (WBA).

All he needs to assure that the WBA will begin playing on schedule next January is teams in 32 cities from the U.S. East Coast to Taiwan — and players to swing bats and catch balls.

"Instead of saying 'here comes the old apple,' they'll be saying 'here comes the old orange,'" Downey said, almost with a straight face, during a news conference called Wednesday to announce formation of the WBA.

"We'll use the orange baseball at night anyway but we're still experimenting to see what color we'll use in the daytime. We experimented with red, white and blue balls but when I saw them spinning through the air it made me dizzy. A real stomach-turner," he said.

Anyway, Downey said six cities have already at least $150,000 for franchises. "But that's only the minimum. Some have, and will, pay more. The price is subject to supply and demand, just like oil."

Downey doesn't have a single ballplayer yet but he says, "More than 70 established major leaguers have been in contact with us, including six from the (World Champion) Oakland Athletics."

Williams. He has expressed interest in it and I will be meeting with him in Florida next weekend."

Williams managed the Athletics to a World Series win last fall but after he quit he was prevented by a court order from managing the New York Yankees. He is out of baseball for the nonce.

If all goes as Downey promises it will, the WBA will be a workman's paradise. Competitive salaries, a schedule only about half as long as the American and National Leagues play, five designated hitters per team, a designated runner, three balls for a walk instead of four, no pitching to the batter who is to be intentionally walked, and two runs on the scoreboard for a safe steal of home after the sixth inning.

And after three years a player could veto a trade and if traded "receive 15 per cent of the value of the trade."

"Why are you doing this to baseball?" he was asked.

"Baseball as presently structured and played is a bore," he said. "It is the intention of the WBA to breathe new life into baseball, through thoughtful rules and management innovations."

"We are going to help the American public fall in love with baseball again. And like the song says, it will be better the second time around," he said.

Cities he said had already secured franchises are Birmingham, Ala., Memphis, Columbus, Ohio, Mexico City, Jersey City, N.J., and Tampa-St. Petersburg, Fla. He said

Washington will have a team even if the WBA has to operate it itself.

He said league attorneys "are talking to the State Department about putting two teams in Cuba. That situation should be resolved soon."

One thing is, the league will be color blind, Downey said one of the franchises is owned by blacks. He wouldn't say which one but there were suggestions it was Memphis.

Challenges are nothing new to the baseball establishment. The Mexican League raided the majors after World War II and landed more than a dozen players, mostly over-the-hill vets and war-time players who couldn't cut it when the stars returned from the war. The exception was relief pitcher Sal Maglie, who jumped over and back. The Continental League made noises in the 1950s but never signed a single player. It did, however, force the major leagues to expand.

Downey, one of the founding fathers of the American Basketball Association who owned the New Orleans Bucs when they were in the ABA, listed 14 other potential sites in the United States:

Charlotte, N.C., Seattle, Wash., Portland, Ore., Denver, Conn., Buffalo, Indianapolis, Ind., Phoenix, Ariz., Albuquerque, N.M., New Orleans, La., Louisville, Ky., San Antonio, Tex., and Orlando, Fla.

Hawks Drop Opener To Stony Brook, 8-1

STONY BROOK — The New Paltz State baseball team, which figured to be a hit-and-run type of club this season, suffered a letdown in both those categories here Wednesday and lost the season opener to host Stony Brook, 8-1.

"It all happened in the fourth inning," said New Paltz coach Pete Kramer. "We should have come out of it ahead 3-0, but instead we were down 4-1 and all the starch was gone out of us."

After three scoreless frames between Hawk right-hander Dean Briggs and winning pitcher Mike Garofola, New Paltz had Frank Cruz safe at second base with two men out. Vic Marandona duplicated Cruz' feat, reaching on an infield error and advancing on an overthrow to score Cruz on the play.

The Hawks thought they had it rolling then when Ed Ginsberg beat out an infield hit and Mike Scammacca slammed a two-run double to left center, but Stony Brook stopped it the easy way. Appealing that Scammacca had missed first base, the umpire agreed, and the Hawks went to the field with a one-run lead.

A hit and a fielder's choice set up the error that undid Briggs in the inning's bottom half. With men on first and second, a blooper to right was misplayed and the belated cutoff throw then hit a baserunner and rolled back into the outfield. Three runs scored and the next batter tagged the shakey Briggs for a home run.

"We have two doubleheaders this weekend so I took Briggs out after that," Kramer said. Ralph Calderone and Tom Whitaker finished up, but the Hawks never got close to Garofola.

Kramer said, "Garofola did a nice job. He had no walks and was always ahead of our hitters."

Garofola fanned nine batters and had trouble only with Whitaker who cracked two of New Paltz's three hits.

Storm Staffer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Bill Griffin, an assistant coach at California State-Fullerton, has been named to the coaching staff of the Portland Storm, the World Football League team announced Wednesday.

Griffin, 29, has been at Cal State for two years. He will coach Portland's special teams and help with the offense, club officials said.

He is a University of Missouri graduate and assisted Dan Devine when the latter was head coach there.

Foyt to Race

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — An entry was confirmed Wednesday for racing great A.J. Foyt in the nationally televised Tony Hulman Classic April 14 at the Action Track here.

The annual Hulman race, 40 laps on the 1/2-mile dirt track, is the biggest U.S. Auto Club sprint car event. It is expected to offer a record $20,000 purse this year.

The race was moved up this year from the first weekend in May to free more drivers who may be preparing for the Indianapolis 500 May 26.

More Shuffling On ABC Board

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis edition of the American Bowling Congress tournament hung up another record Wednesday and the seemingly endless parade of standings changes continued.

Actual credit for having set the record for the most number of 1,900 regular all-events counts went to Ed Rehnborg, 31, Delray Beach, Fla. He put together series of 657, 644 and 633 for 1,944 and thus became the 58th bowler to enter this coveted category.

The record was tied at 57 by Rehnborg's teammate, Marvin George, who came up with a 1-929 series eight minutes before Rehnborg finished bowling.

Hay NJCAA All-American

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Mike Hay, the six-foot-two-inch scoring ace from Sullivan County Community College of Loch Sheldrake, N.Y., was named today to the National Junior College Athletic Association's first team All-American squad.

Hay was one of two Region XV players to be cited. The other was Nestor Serrano, the sparkplug of regional titlist New York City Community and the MVP of the 1974 regional tournament. He was tabbed for third team honors.

Joining Hay on the first team were Tommy Barker of Southern Idaho; Dave Kragel of Southern Idaho; Connie White of Southern Idaho; and Connie White of NJCAA champion Mercer, N.J.; Taylor Williams of Howard County Texas;

George White of Columbia State Tennessee; Ron Davis of Glendale CC Arizona; and Russell Davis of Louisville, Ky. Hay, who was an honorable mention pick last year when he was the Mid-Hudson Conference Region XV's only All-American with a 19.8 mark. In addition, was third teamer Jackie Knowles he was fifth in assists with 6.3 of Ulster Community. The per game.

Bradley Defers Bid for Office

TRENTON (UPI) — New York Knicks basketball star Bill Bradley said Wednesday he will not run for Congress this year because of his "personal and professional responsibilities."

"While I have seriously considered this possibility, I have concluded that given the combination of personal and professional responsibilities I would not be a candidate for an elective office in 1974," Bradley said in a statement.

Bradley, 30, has been talking with Democratic leaders across the state about his chances of ousting Rep. Joseph J. Maraziti, since he bought a home in Denville in Morris County.

"Because of shortness of time between the end of my commitment to the New York Knicks and the June primary," he said, "I believe I could not wage the kind of grass-roots issue-oriented campaign I would desire and the electorate deserves."

Bradley, a Rhodes scholar who campaigned for Gov. Brendan T. Byrne in the gubernatorial election last November, expressed hope, however, to "become active in community affairs in the next few years."

He said he will support a Democratic ticket in this year's election in November and campaign for a Democratic candidate if asked.

BEARDSTOWN, Ill. (UPI)— Pedro Wolfmiller is nothing if not a determined golfer.

While playing a round Tuesday, his big toe began to hurt. Wolfmiller finished his 18 holes before taking off his shoe to see what was wrong.

It seems a razor blade had got into his shoe and he needed 15 stitches to repair the damage.

Old Coach Backs Csonka

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Ben Schwartzwalder, who coached Larry Csonka during the powerful running back's heyday at Syracuse University, says Csonka deserves what's coming to him.

And undoubtedly the Miami Dolphin star is going to get an enormous boost in his salary. Csonka, running back Jim Kiick and wide receiver Paul Warfield, all veterans of the National Football League and of the Super Bowl champ Dolphins, signed last Sunday with Toronto of the rival World Football League.

The three-year contract with the Northmen was estimated at more than $4 million when it takes effect in 1975. The trio, who were instrumental in leading the dolphins to the last two Super Bowl titles, plan to play out their options with Miami this season.

Warfield made an estimated $70,000 last year. Csonka $65,000 and Kiick $55,000.

"I'm sure those three gentlemen have been given reasonable assurance that they'll get their money. Larry is entitled to do what is best for himself and his family," Schwartzwalder said Wednesday.

"I'm sure he's (Csonka) gave it some thought and if what I read in the papers is true, I'm sure he had a better financial arrangement" with Toronto than he had with Miami, said the 64-year-old Schwartzwalder, who tutored the All-American fullback at Syracuse from 1955-67.

Teri Myer Is Bride of Louis J. Ganci

St. Mary of the Snow Church, Saugerties, provided the setting for the wedding of Teri Myer, Route 23A, Box 263, Palenville, and Louis

John Ganci, Cold Brook Road, Boiceville, on Saturday, March 16.

The Rev. Michael McFadden officiated at the ceremony. Nan Dickman provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Alan Myer of Washington Avenue, Saugerties, and the late Alan Myer. The bridegroom is the son of Salvatore Ganci of Cold Brook Road, Boiceville, and the late Paula Ganci.

Fred Edwards, brother-in-law of the bride, gave her in marriage. She selected a traditional white satrapeau gown. Princess lace accented the high neckline, deep cuffs, hemline, and formed a cape effect at the shoulders. Her three-tiered illusion veil was held by a matching tiana headpiece and she carried a cascade of white gardenias and red roses.

Sandra Fondino of Glasco served as matron of honor. Attendants were the Mmes. Alana Pesce, Lake Katrine; Michelle Edwards, Palenville, both sisters of the bride; Frances Holt, sister of the bridegroom, Ballston Lake; and Miss Tonya Pesce, niece of the bride, Lake Katrine, who served as flower girl.

The honor attendant and flower girl were attired in pink print gowns. The other attendants wore gowns of candy pink, Nile and apricot. All gowns were styled with self ruffles at the neckline, bib and wrists. They wore ripple flop hats with bows and streamers to match their gowns and carried bouquets of pompons and white carnations, tipped to match their gowns. The flower girl wore a ribbon in her hair and carried a basket of flowers similar to the other attendants.

The best man was George Beam of Binghamton. Ushers were Fred Pesce, Lake Katrine; Fred Edwards, Palenville, both brothers-in-law of the bride; Charles Holt, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Ballston Lake; and Fred Pesce, nephew of the bride, Lake Katrine, was ringbearer.

A reception was held at Flamingo Restaurant, Saugerties.

Mrs. Ganci was graduated from Saugerties High School and is employed as a secretary by the Lehigh Portland Cement Company. Her husband, a graduate of Ontario Central High School, attended Genesee State College and Oneonta State College. He is employed as assistant manager at Howard Johnson's Restaurant, Saugerties.

The couple will reside at Route 23A, Box 263, Palenville.

Foster Children's Week Local Activities Mark Observance and Needs

In observance of National Foster Children's Week, Ulster County, Action for Foster Children Committee has been active with the following events:

Information booths were manned throughout the county for the purpose of disseminating information about foster children, foster parents and adoption. Each booth was staffed by a representative of the Department of Social Services and a foster parent. Booths were placed in Barker's in New Paltz and Victory Market, Simmons Plaza, Saugerties, and the Town Welfare Office in Ellenville.

Today, at the Grand Union in Highland, the same type of booth is being manned with a repeat on Friday at Britts, Kingston Shopping Plaza and in Mammoth Mall, Ulster Avenue Mall. Anyone may receive information at these booths from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In addition, the Action Committee held several programs. Tuesday, April 2, the Department of Social Services, Children's Division, held open house from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Ulster County Office Building. On Wednesday, April 3, the Children's Home of Kingston conducted a coffee hour featuring "Conversations on Child Care."

Institutional Care

For those children who are most in need of intensive care, placement in an institution is often the most appropriate treatment. Within Ulster County there are two relatively large, non-profit child care institutions that have a variety of therapeutic programs for emotionally disturbed children.

The Children's Home of Kingston, located at 26 Grove Street, operates residential and day treatment programs for emotionally disturbed boys. Children who are unable to satisfactorily adjust to family, school or community life are accepted at the Home. At intake the boys range in age from 6-12 years old. The Children's Home has its own state accredited school. Thirty-two boys live in the new, on-campus residential units and attend the campus school. Six boys live at home with their own families (in Ulster County) and attend the campus school. Another seventeen boys live in agency-owned boarding homes located in residential sections of Kingston. This group of boys usually attend public school but maintain their contact with the Children's Home through the boarding-home parents (employees of the Home) and the Home's clinical services (case work, psychological and psychiatric evaluations.) The goal of the Children's Home is to return each child to his own home and school as soon as possible.

The average length of stay at the Children's Home is about two years. However, there are some children who are unable to return to their natural parents. For them the Children's Home provides alternative forms of care. One alternative would be placement in a small agency-owned boarding home like the "mini-home" for two boys or placement with foster parents.

As part of National Foster Children's Week, the Children's Home welcomed visitors on Wednesday, April 3 from 1-3 p.m. The public had an opportunity to tour the facilities and talk with the staff about child care facilities and techniques.

Like the Children's Home but larger and serving children primarily from the New York City area is the St. Cabrini Home in West Park. St. Cabrini served approximately 115 boys and girls from ages nine to 17. Originally, St. Cabrini was designed for dependent, neglected children but, like the Children's Home, it has found increasing need for therapeutic treatment for children with emotional problems. St. Cabrini operates a special unit for 25 emotionally disturbed, adolescent boys and is about to open a similar unit for girls. In addition to their on-campus institutional dormitories, St. Cabrini operates group homes and 12 agency-owned boarding homes. For those children who are in need of specialized parent-child relationships, St. Cabrini has placed 29 children with 16 foster parents.

According to Ann Collins, director of Foster Care at St. Cabrini, "Our aim is to return the children to their homes as soon as possible and they usually stay with us about two years." As an extension of its services to the children already in care, St. Cabrini is about to implement adoption procedures so that those children who have been placed in foster care and are eligible may be adopted.

St. Cabrini joined in the celebration of National Foster Children's Week by participating in Open House sponsored at the Department of Social Services Tuesday, April 2.

GRACE GREENWOODS of Woodstock, stands before her painting, "Homage to Marion Greenwood," now on exhibition in The College Visual Arts Gallery at the Stone Ridge campus of Ulster County Community College. She is one of five Woodstock artists whose works are on exhibition at the college. The others include Rollin Crampton, Bernard Steffen, Anton Refregier and Carole Uehara.

UCCC Students Told Opportunities Are Growing for Women

Business opportunities are growing today for women in a variety of fields.

That was the information passed on to Ulster County Community College students by several speakers at a Business Week program held at the College's Stone Ridge campus.

Mickey Duncan, operator of the Hidden Valley Recreation Center in Ulster County, told of the increase today of recreation positions for women.

Other opportunities for women in the business world were outlined by Mrs. Rosemary Talmadge, a word processing specialist for IBM in Kingston; Mrs. Gertrude Felson, an administrative assistant at the Kingston City Laboratory; and Mrs. Evelyn Navy, who does public relations work for Adventures and Radio Station WKNY.

Also outlining the rise of positions in varied fields for women were Mrs. Kay Sullivan, assistant vice president of the Heritage Savings Bank; Miss Anita Shon, office service manager at IBM; Miss Jeanne M. Steuding, administrative assistant at the Myron J. Michael Junior High School in Kingston; Mrs. Sheila Gallop Siskler, a legal secretary for a Kingston attorney; and Miss Carol Cross, a secretary for the Colonial Cooperative Insurance Company.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH POST

(C) 1974 The Emily Post Institute, Inc.

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is having a baby in June. My mother, who is 86 years old, lives with me and has a heart condition which restricts her activities and makes it impossible for her to leave the house. She would like to see and feel a part of the festivities surrounding her granddaughter and new great grandchild to be. However, the only way this can be is to have a shower here at my home.

According to the books on etiquette, it says I cannot give my daughter a shower, and yet I'm afraid it is the only way we can include my mother, which I would dearly love to do.

Could there be an exception to the rule?

Mrs. L.G.

Dear Mrs. G.: If any of your friends or your daughter's friends suggests that she would like to give a shower, you can explain the situation and ask her to hold the shower at your house. It would be her party and she would be responsible for everything. The only difference is that it would take place in your home rather than hers to enable your mother to attend. It might seem strange to you to act like a guest in your own house, but as the saying goes, "Try it, you'll like it."

If no one else seems to be planning to give a shower, go ahead and do it yourself. There are exceptions to every rule, and your mother's condition makes a good excuse for you to give the party.

"So You're Planning to Give a Shower!" This booklet tells you everything you need to know for a bridal shower, a welcome party for a new neighbor, the local minister, or anyone else. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

A Cry for Help from a Cigaret Addict

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: My problem is me! I smoke between three and four packs of cigarettes a day and I can't quit. I have thrown them away, packs at a time. I've been to three "stop-smoking" programs and went back to smoking after each one. If I don't have a cigarette after 15 minutes, I become so nervous I am ready to climb the wall.

I have been to a hypnotist, a psychiatrist and a psychologist and they couldn't help me. I have become an addict just like an alcoholic. If I don't have a smoke I can't function.

Please don't say, "You can quit if you want to," because nobody wants to quit as much as I do, Abby, but I just can't help myself. I know I am going to smoke myself right into the grave, but there seems to be nothing I can do about it. Can you help me?

HOOKED IN BIRMINGHAM
DEAR HOOKED: I don't know what "stop-smoking" programs you've attended, but I've had some excellent reports about several. You may have a nicotine addiction, so see a physician. (But choose one who doesn't smoke! I KNOW you can quit, because two of my best friends were as hooked as you — and they both quit — cold turkey! Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I am a Florida executive. When gasoline became scarce I forbade my wife to drive to church on Sundays. I have nothing against religion, but the church is 15 miles from our home. My wife says she will quit driving to church the day I quit driving to the golf course.

Abby, this isn't possible because my position in the company depends upon my entertaining clients, so in a sense I must play golf for business reasons.

Please tell my wife how wrong you think she is.

FORT MEYERS
EXECUTIVE

DEAR EXECUTIVE: I don't think your wife is wrong at all. Her spiritual needs may be as important to her as your business connections are to you. . . .

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 22-year-old woman. Seven years ago my mother died and my world fell apart. A year later my father remarried. My step-mother and I never got along. At first we both tried, but after years of fighting, we knew we could never be friends. My father always took her part against me.

I continued to live at home until I reached 21. Then I moved to another city (about as far away as I could get) to make a new life for myself. There I met the man to whom I am now engaged. In the year I've been gone I wrote 36 letters to my father. He didn't write to me once!

Even when I wrote that I was engaged, he didn't call or write to congratulate me . . . his only child. I realize that he just doesn't care about me.

My problem: All my mother's lovely china, crystal, silver and linen are in the home my father and his second wife share. I feel that my mother would have wanted me to have some of them — and I want them for sentimental reasons, but I know my father will not give them to me willingly, and I'd probably have to put up a fight for them.

Do I have any legal rights to these things? Can you help me?

L.
DEAR L.: The only one qualified to give you legal advice is a lawyer. Your best bet is to engage one and pay him (or her) for what he (or she) knows.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212 for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Noted Lecturer at Meeting of Saugerties Garden Club

The Saugerties Society of Little Gardens held its meeting at the Saugerties Methodist Church on Wednesday, Mar. 27. Wayne Trimm, noted painter, conservationist, writer, and lecturer, presented a program on birds, of which he is an excellent authority. Using his own paintings of birds that he has studied in their natural habitats, Mr. Trimm explained the reasons why birds nest in one particular locale, the factors that have produced extinction in some species, and the different characteristics of many birds indigenous to our area in the Hudson Valley and New York State. Of interest was the life spans of the various birds. Mr. Trimm gave a general approximation, saying that small birds such as the hummingbird will live from four to six years; the medium sized birds can have up to a 10 year life expectancy; and the larger birds, such as the eagle, can live as long as 30 years.

This was an open meeting, and the Garden Club was pleased to have so many guests, which included several fifth and sixth graders from the Cahill Elementary and St. Mary's Schools. After the guest speaker's program, refreshments were served by Mrs. Augusta Modjeska, Mrs. Francis Lawless, Mrs. John Jagodzinski, Mrs. Richard Cyr, and Mrs. Frank Greco.

The next meeting of the Garden Club will be held on Wednesday, Apr. 10 at 1:30 p.m. Speaker will be Orvil Norman, well known area landscape designer. Mr. Norman teaches a landscaping course at Ulster County Community College, as well as having his own gardening business in Lake Katrine. He has had a radio show for the last six years on which he gives gardening tips, and he is also a writer, having authored many gardening articles for newspapers. His program will be presented at a most appropriate time as, with the advent of spring, thoughts turn to gardens once again. The April 10 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John D. Dooley of Malden-on-Hudson.

As a note of special interest, the Garden Club is sponsoring a bus trip to Sterling Forest in mid-May. Further information on this trip will be announced.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Heloise: I used to worry about something happening to our precious photographs.

Now I keep our negatives in the safety deposit box.

Therefore, a good share of our photos could be replaced if for some reason they were destroyed.

Jeannine Davis

Now that is smart thinking! We all know there aren't too many things in our homes that cannot be replaced, but some photographs cannot.

Why don't you pick out the negatives of ones that have special meaning to you, and ones that you couldn't replace. Make a special trip to the bank, if necessary, but take care of the matter now!

Heloise

Dear Heloise: I have always had trouble cleaning under the washer, dryer and other appliances.

Then I thought of making a slipcover for a yardstick. I made this from two thicknesses of an old blanket. I can use it dry to sweep, and wet to mop under the appliance.

Mrs. W.E.J.

Dear Heloise:

The night before I plan to have pancakes for breakfast. I always place my plates in the oven.

This, I have found, is a great way of having warm plates for the pancakes without having to go to a lot of bother.

The pilot light in the oven warms them nicely.

Jean

ADVERTISING PAYS! — Harold and Katherine Van Allen of Kingston, who own "Van Allen's Lady Katrina," told The Freeman this week that an entire litter of puppies, six in all, were placed in homes as a direct result of two ads published in this newspaper. Lady Katrina, resting peacefully at the feet of three friends, gave birth to three males and three females on Mother's Day, 1973. The father is Champion Pixie Dell Epicure of Stamford, Conn. With the puppies are (L.R.) Miss Viola L. Freer, holding her namesake, "Viola," Mrs. Frieda Woodward with "Frieda," and Miss Pearl Rightmyer with "Pearl." (Van Allen photo)

Lancelot Foils Mordred's Plot

He dropped his queen under it.

Mordred knocked out the ace of spades. Sir Tristram sitting West was on lead. He thought a while. Figured out exactly what was going on. After all Tristram was the second best player at the square table.

Then he led a diamond. Mordred had to take that finesse. It lost whereupon Lancelot led his eight of hearts and Tristram cashed three heart tricks.

The wily Mordred looked over dummy quickly. The normal first play would be low from dummy and would have left Mordred one trick short. Lancelot sitting East would win with his queen and lead the suit back. Later on the defense would score two more heart tricks plus the ace of spades and king of diamonds.

Mordred noted this as quickly as a knight of the round table could slay a dragon. He went right up with dummy's ace.

If anyone but Lancelot, the peerless knight and bridge player had been sitting East, Mordred's play of the heart ace, followed by an attack in spades would have brought the contract home. There would be no way for the defense to get more than two heart tricks.

Unfortunately for Mordred Lancelot was ready with the defense against that ace play.

Chapin's Trial Going to Jury

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arranged to pay Segretti for his work. After hearing closing arguments, a jury of his peers begins deciding today if Dwight L. Chapin knew too much about political "dirty tricks."

Final arguments were scheduled to begin later today in the perjury trial of Chapin, 33, President Nixon's former appointments secretary.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said Wednesday he would give the jury final instructions on how to handle the maze of testimony it heard about political tricks against Democrats in 1972. Then, the judge told the seven men and five women of the jury, he would place the matter "in your hands."

"Eyes only" was the dominant theme of Wednesday's session, the third day of the trial. The phrase, written on a confidential White House memo, was the vehicle that linked H.R. "Bob" Haldeman to knowledge about Donald Segretti, the man whose harassment of Democrats in the 1972 presidential race won him a jail sentence.

The memo's import was brought to fruition after Judge Gesell dismissed one of four counts charging Chapin with lying to the Watergate grand jury. The dismissed count said Chapin lied when he said he did not know how much or by what means Herbert W. Kalmbach

Standing were three counts charging Chapin told lies when he said he did not discuss distribution of campaign literature with Segretti; told Segretti to talk to the FBI when the bureau tried to see Segretti; and gave Segretti no instructions about harassing any single Democratic candidate for president in 1972.

The "Eyes Only" memo was read by a government attorney during the 58-minute appearance Wednesday of John W. Dean III, who said he talked to Segretti about seeing the FBI after Chapin told him Segretti was upset because the FBI wanted an interview.

It was not certain who wrote the memo until Chapin took the stand later in the day. He said he wrote it to Dean, Nixon's former special counsel, to bring the Segretti matter together, presumably for "persons higher in the White House."

The memo, dated Nov. 5, 1972, said, "Don was still in the military. We discussed his becoming an agent for us during the coming political campaign. We were after information as to schedules of candidates, people who could infiltrate headquarters, could ask embarrassing questions and could organize counter demonstrations to those we expected our opposition to come forth with during the campaign."

Chapin supplied the name of Haldeman for a blank line in the sentence: "Gordon Strachan brought the subject to the attention of (Haldeman) and Kalmbach at a White House meeting. It was approved for Segretti to be hired."

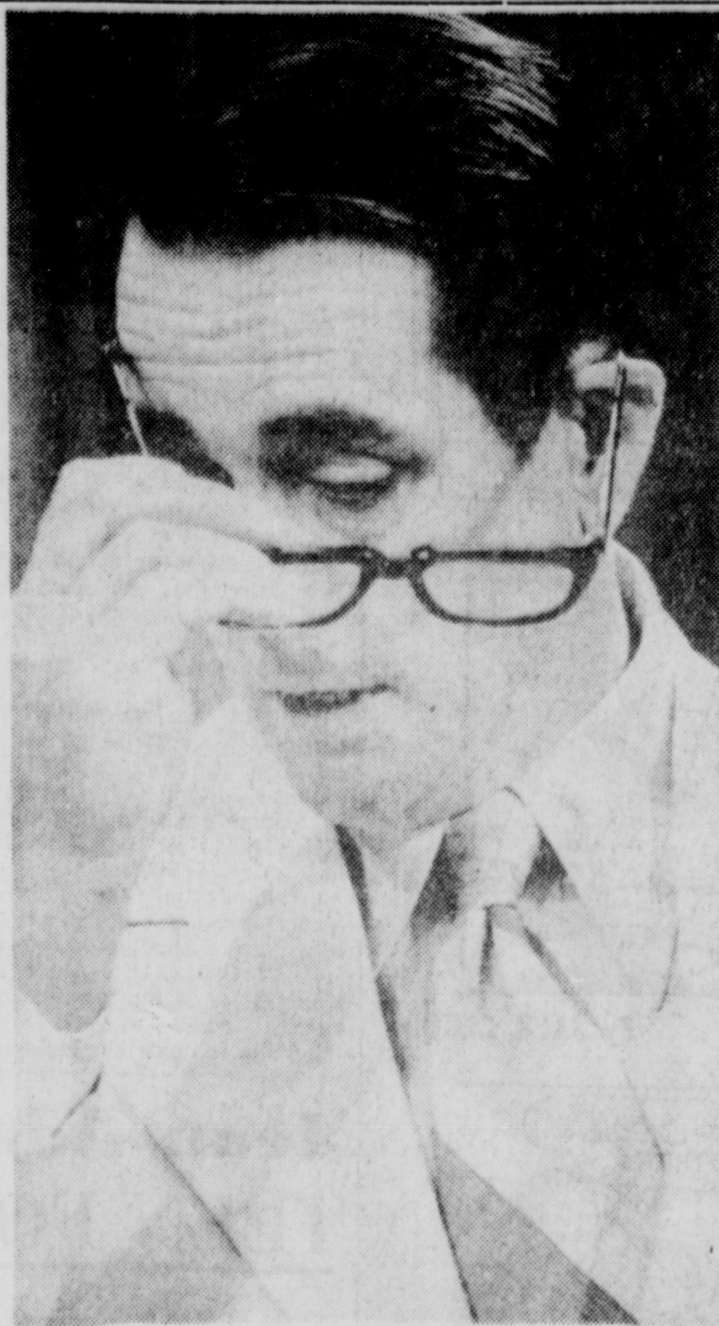

Chapin supplied the names of Haldeman and former Attorney General John N. Mitchell for a sentence saying G. Gordon Liddy, who planned the Watergate burglary, "reported to Strachan there was an agent in the field who they couldn't determine and 'they' were going to go after him. Strachan checked two people (Haldeman) and (Mitchell), and then Don was advised to report to Liddy."

The memo also referred to Segretti ("Don") planting agents in headquarters of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, putting stink bombs in Muskie's headquarters at Tampa, Fla. ("The Muskie people blamed Jackson's troops"), running classified ads for "blacks to work in Muskie headquarters and putting out 'countless releases about events — scheduled and nonscheduled.'"

At one point, the memo said, Segretti blundered in New Hampshire and "I yanked him to Washington."

"It was the time I should have fired him," the memo said.

At another point, it said: "When the Watergate broke, we told Don to get lost."

REINECKE AT NEWS CONFERENCE
(UPI Telephoto)

Reinecke Denies Perjury Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California hotly denied a perjury charge in an indictment handed down by a Watergate grand jury Wednesday, predicting he will be acquitted.

"I am innocent," declared Reinecke after the grand jury handed down a three count indictment accusing him of lying to the Senate Judiciary Committee about an alleged offer by ITT to donate $400,000 if the 1972 Republican Convention were moved to San Diego.

Reinecke, a candidate for the GOP gubernatorial nomination in California, was charged with lying on three occasions during testimony about an alleged offer by ITT to contribute $400,000 if the 1972 Republican National convention were held in San Diego.

Reinecke told a news conference in Sacramento "there will be no plea bargaining whatsoever," vowing to fight the case and predicting he will win the governor's office in California despite the action.

Reinecke was accused in the 11-page indictment of lying in testifying he had not heard of the offer before April, 1972 and that he did not know when former Attorney General John N. Mitchell first heard of the offer.

The 1972 Republican national convention originally was scheduled for San Diego, but later said the offer was linked to an ITT settlement with Mitchell after reports ITT and Sheraton, and the Justice Department its subsidiary, had offered to over ITT's controversial merger subsidize some of the cost to the Republicans with a $400,000 contribution. The Justice Department at first opposed the merger, but then changed its mind.

Mitchell, Stans Lawyers Want Charges Dismissed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Attorneys for former Nixon Cabinet officers John N. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans were scheduled to ask today for a mistrial and dismissal of federal conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury charges.

The attorneys filed the motions after prosecutor John R. Wing rested the government's case against former U.S. Attorney General Mitchell and former Secretary of Commerce Stans Wednesday.

If U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi denies the defense motions when the hearing resumes later today, the defense will begin Friday. So far, 6,000 transcript pages of testimony from 400 witnesses and submission in evidence of 231 exhibits had been made in the trial, in its seventh week.

Mitchell and Stans are charged with attempting to hamper a Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) investigation of New Jersey financier Robert L. Vesco in return for a secret $200,000 cash campaign contribution to the Nixon re-election campaign in 1972.

Vesco, charged by the SEC with a $224 million corporate fraud, is a co-defendant but is living in Costa Rica, a fugitive from U.S. justice.

In a joint memorandum to Gagliardi, the defendants argued that the federal grand jury indictment should be dismissed because the government failed to prove conspiracy.
